PARTED IN CHILDHOOD BROTHER MET SISTER

Happy Reunion of F. Ouimette Patenaude With His Sister in This City—Had Been Adopted by a Family and Assumed Another Name

Francis Ouimette Patenaude, 22 years old, formerly of Lowell and now of Rossland, British Columbia, who is visiting relatives in this city, is a happy man and he has reason to feel that way, for last night he met a sister he had not seen for 20 years, and only a few days ago he was entertained by another sister in Fitchburg, whom he had never seen.

The young man is the son of Napoleon Ouimette, who died five years ago. He is one of six children who were separated 20 years ago at the death of the mother. Two of them have passed away since and the other four are as follows: Albert Ouimette, 24 years of age of Rock Island, Canada; Laura, Mrs. Sidney Rufus, 26 years of age of Fitchburg; Marie Rose Delina Ouimette, 20 years, of this city and Francis Ouimette Patenaude, 22 years, of Rossland, B. C.

Ouimette was adopted by his godmother, Nistic Patenaude of this city and he was then given the name of his foster parents. Twelve years ago the family removed to Coaticook, Que., whence they went to Rossland eight years ago. The boy knew he had a brother and four sisters, but did not know their whereabouts and did not even know if they were alive.

Three months ago the young man came to the United States for the sole purpose of locating his brother and sisters and his efforts have been crowned with success. He went to Coaticook, Que., and there he learned his brother Albert was living at Rock Island, Canada and a few days later a happy reunion took place in the latter place. Mr. Patenaude arrived in this city three weeks ago and succeeded in locating a sister, Mrs. Sidney Rufus, who is making her home in Fitchburg and a few days ago he visited her and through her he learned two of his sisters had passed away a few years ago and the other was living in this city.

After considerable work Mr. Patenaude found his sister, Marie Rose Delina at 2 Suffolk court, where she is

PARIS REPORTS ADVANCE

London Hopes to Celebrate Anniversary of the Battle of Jena With Victory Along Both Fronts Today—Turkish Fleet, Composed of German Cruisers, Sighted in Black Sea—Germans Advance Near Ostend—Belgian Government Goes to Havre—Lille Retaken by Germans

LONDON, Oct. 14.—There is hope in London today that the anniversary of the battle of Jena in which the French gained victory over the Prussians and Saxons may be celebrated along both battle fronts by events recalling this great and decisive struggle but whatever the outcome, observers are being permitted to receive only the briefest reports of what is now transpiring in Belgium, France and Russia.

Verdict for $500
A verdict of $500 for the plaintiff was reported by a jury in superior court this forenoon in the case of Rice vs. Boston & Maine railroad, an action of tort, in which the plaintiff asked for damages sustained when he was struck by a grade crossing gate at Lincoln. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon. H. D. McLehan for the plaintiff and Trull & Wier for the defence.

The Boston & Maine railroad company was also defendant in the case which was tried today. Marion S. Cole of Waltham being the plaintiff. Miss Cole, who was injured in a collision of trains while on her way from Boston to Waltham, claims damages for personal injuries to the amount of $1,000. The accident occurred on Nov. 11, 1912, and the plaintiff alleges that she was disabled for a long time afterward. George L. Mayberry of Boston for the plaintiff and Trull & Wier for the defence.

News of military operations is very meager. Stubborn fighting is reported at (name deleted by censor), and it is claimed that all the efforts of General Von Kluck to smash the allied front have been repulsed. General Von Kluck is the commander of the German right wing.

In the Baltic the German fleet is showing unusual activity. In addition to submarines or a torpedo boat which recently sank a Russian cruiser at a point distant two days steaming from their base a great German squadron flying the flag of Prince Henry of Prussia is today reported cruising about the Aland Islands, according to a Berlin announcement.

The ferment over the question of neutrality of the countries of southeastern Europe is increasing everywhere. An exception is found in the case of Italy, where discussion has been checked while the country awaits the decision of the sick bed of its foreign minister.

Cruisers in Black Sea
The famous cruisers Goeben and Breslau again are a source of friction with Turkey on account of the report that they have passed into the Black sea and are today near the spot where a Russian fleet was reported to be cruising not long ago.

In England the controversy over the sending of naval reserves into Antwerp is confined to the press and the public, the authorities having made no reply to criticism of their action.

LOSSES SUFFERED BY STATE BANK FAILURE

Whether Depositors May Resort to Courts to Compel Officials to Reimburse Them Depends on the Outcome of Arguments Today Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Whether depositors in state banks may resort to the courts to compel state officials in charge of the depositors' guarantee funds to reimburse them for losses suffered by a state bank failure depends upon the outcome of arguments today before the supreme court.

The German army corps which has occupied Lille evidently is part of the force which has been released from service in Belgium. Having failed in their attacks at Arras, Albert, Roy, La Bassigny and Tracey Le Mont, there was much speculation on the result of the next effort of the Germans. The allies who have maintained a solid barrier hoped not only to keep their line intact but to make some progress as it is reported they did yesterday.

Attorney General West appeared for the state of Oklahoma and Charles A. Loomis of Kansas City, Mo., headed a corps of attorneys for depositors.

Supreme Court of Sapulpa, Okla. The state banking board for reimbursed the city of Sapulpa for losses sustained by it, but refused to reimburse certain corporation depositors and holders of deposit certificates. The decision probably will affect the rights of depositors in every state having a garnery law for bank deposits.

GERMAN AND CHINESE WOMEN AND CHILDREN TO LEAVE TSING TAU.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—It was officially declared today that the American consul at Tsing Tau, W. R. Peck, and a number of German and Chinese women and children are to leave there tomorrow. This move is in fulfillment of the arrangement recently concluded for the removal of all remaining non-combatants from the German position in Kiau Chow.

LEFT WING OF ALLIES TO BE THE SCENE OF SHARP FIGHTING

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Chronicle's correspondent at the seat of war telegraphs today as follows:

The left wing of the allies where the French and British forces have taken the offensive at certain points against the Germans is expected to be the scene of sharp fighting.

The occupation of Lille by the Germans, it is believed by the French, will be only of short duration. The actions in this vicinity previously had been principally engagements between the cavalry of the contending forces but

A fine harvest supper and excellent entertainment proved good drawing cards at the Immanuel Baptist church last night. Supper was served from 6 until 8 o'clock. So many were present that it was necessary to provide two separate suppers. Mrs. V. E. Osborn was chairman of the committee having charge of the supper. The entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Mary H. Poppell, and it was excellent. The various numbers were: Piano solo, Mr. Lord; song, Miss Blanche Sennet; violin solo, George Downes; reading, Miss Jilla Field; song, "Autumn Time"; Wesley Boult; song, Miss Louise Pierce; selections, ladies' chorus choir of the Chelmsford Street Baptist church; cornet solo, Edward Isherwood, and graphophone selections.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH

ROME, Oct. 14.—A report received here from Constantinople says that the commander of the former German cruiser Goeben will become the head of the Turkish fleet and aims to attack the Russian fleet for mastery in the Black sea and to threaten the Russian coast. The Goeben now flies the Turkish flag and all her officers and crew are said to be Germans.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Despatches received here from Sofia, Bulgaria, and other points report the appearance of the former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which fly the Turkish flag in the Black sea.

NORTH BILLERICA

A large number of young women of North Billerica assembled at the home of Miss Mary Hand, 6 Talbot avenue, last evening and formed an organization which will be known as the "Rowena club." Plans were discussed for social work during the ensuing year and the following officers were elected: President, Anna T. Higgins; vice-president, Agnes C. McSweeney; secretary, Helena M. Downey; treasurer, Ethel Maxwell.

Plans selections were given by the Misses Anna T. Higgins, Ethel Maxwell, Mary Hand and Bernadette Kearney. Misses Agnes C. McSweeney and Elizabeth M. O'Brien rendered violin selections and Helena M. Downey pleased with a vocal solo.

Refreshments were served and at a late hour the party broke up all thanking the hostess for her hospitality. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Bernadette Kearney, 20 Talbot avenue.

STALLINGS TELLS HOW

Manager of Braves Calls Evers
Pivot of Machine—Maranville
Best Since Cobb Arrived—The Pitchers Will be Better Next Year

By GEORGE T. STALLINGS,
Manager of the World's Champions.

In the fall of 1912, after I signed a contract to manage the Boston club,

Pres. Gaffney said to me:

"Now understand, if you accept this proposition you are absolutely the manager of this club in every sense of the word. You can buy or sell whoever you please. I want you to take this club and run it just as if you owned it and your own money were at stake."

Talk of that sort was a great pleasure to me, for since my entrance into baseball as a manager I have either owned or had a big interest in every club with which I have been connected, except the Yankees, and to receive carrie blanche from the owner of a so broke out at the February meet-

National league club was all that any manager could desire. My reply to

Mr. Gaffney was:

"Well, Jim, we'll start at the bottom.
The first man I want in the club is Fred Mitchell. We are going to start with him and some one who knows him. I realize that we have to start from the bottom and build up and to this end it is necessary to part with most of the old players and go in for speed and youth."

We traded, bought and swapped for the first year until we ended the season in fifth place with only Hess, Tyler, Maranville, Barliden, Sweeney and Perkins who were members of the club when I took charge. Of course Maranville had played only a few games and was a very raw recruit. I think the "Rabbit" will tell anyone who asks him that he began to learn baseball in 1913.

When the Murphy episode of China-go broke out at the February meeting of the National league in New York and Johnny Evers was likely to be put on the market I immediately got busy, with the result that we paid more ready money for him than was ever before paid for a ball player.

This was the best investment our club has made, for with Johnny as our captain we have given up all there is in him, and there are few people who can realize what that means."

He entered the ranks as a private with the greatest spirit I have ever seen in a club. He was the turning point that gave us great field which has made us champions, for I believe the weather of Boston was against him, as he is strictly a hot weather
workman. We traded him out to St.
Louis for Cather and Whittier. These players came to us about the time our club began to return to good condition and added wonderful value to us.

Shortly afterward we purchased
"Red" Smith from Brooklyn, a man whose value cannot be estimated, and a few weeks later we purchased Bert Moran from Cincinnati. These deals, with a wonderful improvement in our pitching, under the careful guidance of Fred Mitchell, started our club on the upward climb and we improved every day until we landed the National League championship and were still improving when the World's Series started.

We exhibited a fighting spirit that did not know defeat, but were still looked upon by the so-called "wise" baseball public as an accident which the Athletics could throw out of the park
when the big series started.

in a very dazed condition, although at ter yesterday's game and the spirit shown then a great many backed up and acknowledged that we had a regular club who were real champions. And by making it four straight we clearly demonstrated that this club is all I have claimed it to be—the best fighting machine of the age.

Yesterday's game showed the great defense we have. Every rally started by our opponents was stopped by either great fielding or quick thinking. The real fielding turning point of the game was Chowdy's quick throw to second and Ever's wonderful completion of it when Barry fanned and they nailed Walsh off second. This play took the heart out of the Athletics and they failed to show any fighting spirit from that period to the end of the game.

Maranville's wonderful play stands out superior to any other fielding feature. Our patrons have seen those plays so often by the "Rabbit" that they have begun to look upon them as a matter of course and fail to appreciate the marvelous speed of "The Kid." I consider him the greatest ball player of the game since Ty Cobb arrived.

The public must not overlook the wonderful catch by Mann of Murphy's hard drive in the eighth, which would have started a batting rally, as he was the first man up. These plays are part of the wonderful defense of which I spoke.

Our offense was clearly shown in the scoring of our three runs, the last two of which came after two were out. They came through clean hitting, in which the logest man, our captain, furnished the blow that delivered the game.

Randolph was the same old master, absolutely reliable at all times. He, with Jameson and Tyler, should be even better next year than this. And add to this corps of pitchers our possibilities in Strand, Davis, Cooreham, Crutcher, Hughes, Cottrell, with our old reliable Otto Hoss there appears to be enough material to make any ball club feel confident in pitchers for 1915.

In speaking of these individual players do not forget each and every player of this club. No matter how insignificant they have appeared before the public they have been a link essential to the club and every player has done his full share.

In the spring of 1912 the Winter League club, of which I am very proud invited me to one of their little dinners. In my short talk that night I told them that I had come to Boston to remain for a number of years, so that they would find me always trying to do my best to live up to a ball club that would be worthy of this great city that they must bear with me for at least three years.

For some time I was unable to deliver in two years. And words cannot express how happy and proud I was yesterday when, after the game, I stood on the roof of our dugout with Mayor Curley and gazed into the 10,000 upturned faces before me. I know that from a baseball standpoint Boston had realized the highest honors possible.

In closing, on behalf of myself and the players, I want to thank the Boston public again for its wonderful and willing support this season.

WITH THE BOWLERS

Some of the leagues are already at it.

Oscar Johnson is tuning up his whip to its usual high standard. Johnson will be going along at his usual classy clip before long.

With the world series passed into the members of the team which compose the leagues that have yet opened will be getting into shape for the winter season.

Tommy Hoban has rolled some remarkably high scores thus far. He still holds the single string record at Kiltedge's alleys with 150 which he turned in several weeks ago.

The Lamson league is in full swing and prospects for a successful season are very bright. There's always something doing when the boys from Lamson's get together.

Chester Martel has foisted many of the bowling critics who thought that he was all through with the alley game. The local rollers who, a few years ago, was taking on all comers, can still move 'em down.

Eddie Killpatrick is another who started making his miserable for the pin boys while the weather was still warm. Killpatrick has pulled down high money on more than one occasion this season.

Harry Perrin and Jack Devlin are getting an early start on their alley pin boys while the weather was still warm. Killpatrick has pulled down high money on more than one occasion this season.

James Dales of the Tremont & Suffolk mills have formed a league among themselves and have proven to be a likely looking lot of bowlers. The pin boys are always due for a tough session when the husky machine experts hold forth.

The Shaw Co. bowlers have formed a league and the Lawrence Co. has also entered the bowling arena. When these two leagues get well under way an inter-league match would furnish a lot of excitement. Think it over.

From all early season accounts the Manufacturers' league will prove faster than ever this year. Secretary Farrell is working overtime with the schedule and the result is likely to mean one of the city's fastest organizations of pin knockers.

The Barreca league bowlers are trying out their strike and spare arms right now in anticipation of the league's opening next week. The same fair outlook prevails in this league that exists in all the other local bowling organizations.

Charles McCauley of the wholesale department of the A. G. Pollard store is worrying over the whereabouts of his prize round. "It's all off with the pin boys," says McCauley, "but I'm still holding out hope."

Robert Whitworth of the C. F. Hatch Co. is worrying over the whereabouts of his prize round. "It's all off with the pin boys," says Whitworth, "but I'm still holding out hope."

Alfred King of the A. G. Pollard Co.'s shoe department spent the day with the pin boys.

Mr. William Porter, formerly employed at the Federal Shoe company, leaves today for New York where he accepted a lucrative position with a large wholesale firm.

Mr. Frank Slavin of the Mayan & Edwards Co., is spending a two weeks vacation in the Maine woods on a hunting expedition. He expects to return with some big game.

Franklyn Williams, druggist, employed by Architect Rourke is slowly recovering from the shock he received a few weeks ago. He expects to be himself in another week.

James Quirk of the Hienze Electric Co. is regarded by his friends as a wonder at a baseball dope. They say he has picked a winner in the world's series contests for the last six years.

It is reported that Joe Tait, electrician at the Lowell Bleachery will be seen in the latest dances at the hop to be held Thursday evening. He'll be there to give you the "once over" Joe.

Miss Ethel Ashton, a popular bookkeeper at the Lowell Bleachery was pleasantly surprised last evening by a party of young friends who called at her home in Otis street and presented her a beautiful opal ring, the occasion being her 19th birthday. The presentation was made by Mr. George Weston.

Court Merrimack, Foresters of America, met in regular session in Grafton hall last evening with Chief Ranger John T. Hendriebs in the chair. The banquet committee reported that all arrangements were completed for Thursday night's affair and a very enjoyable evening is anticipated. Two candidates were initiated and applications for membership were received and acted upon. The drawing contest resulted as follows: 6811, Mr. Whithead, 132 Jewett street, first; 4566, Ruth M. Lambert, 498 Fletcher street, second; 1887, Mary C. Mooney, 38 Suffolk street, third; 1594, E. O'Brien, can barn, fourth.

The members stood in silence for the space of three minutes in respect to the memory of the late brother, John J. Holly and James W. Cassidy.

Street Railway Men

At a meeting of Division 280, Street Railway Men's union, held last evening in the Rundell building, Fred Sadler was elected to serve as door director at the coming ball, defeating Daniel O'Hara by two votes. There were three other candidates for the position, they being Brothers Leahy, Duffy and O'Brien. The proceeds of the event will go to the sick benefit fund.

Bay State Colony, U. O. P. F.

The following recently elected officers were installed at a meeting of Bay State colony, United Order of Pilgrim Fathers, held last evening: the installing officers being Deputy Supreme Governor John Tucker and St. Malachy Lieutenant governor, Lizzie W. Coolidge, secretary, John Webster, collector, W. V. Sheehan, chaplain.

Allen Hartley, sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Agnes Sheehan, sentinel at the inner gate, Mrs. Hannah Sheehan, sentinel at the outer gate, Frank S. Ham, trustee for three years, Mrs. Lizzie M. Coolidge, pianist, Miss M. Cormley. During the evening appropriate remarks were made by Deputy Supreme Trustee John S. Painter of Lawrence.

S. H. Hinck Lodge, K of P.

A well attended meeting of Samuel H. Hinck Lodge, 56, Knights of Pythias, was held last evening in its regular meeting hall on Merrimack street. Considerable routine and important business was transacted and the sick committee made an interesting report, stating that the brothers were improving satisfactorily.

Loyal Integrity Lodge, I. O. O. E., M. U.

The regular meeting of Loyal Integrity Lodge held a meeting Monday evening at which only routine business was transacted. After the business session whist was played and a social hour enjoyed.

The staff association of the lodge met Sunday afternoon and held a debate on the subject, "Resolved, It is not advisable to send the sons of a working man to college." After hearing the arguments the judge decided in the affirmative.

FRANCE LOVES JOFFRECHARACTERISTICS OF SILENT MAN WHO IS INCARNATION OF THE SOUL OF FRANCE

Like William the Silent and Molotov, who was "silent in seven languages," Gen. Joffre is notably taciturn and he has been silent through a laborious military career of 44 years. He is now 61, but still in the full vigor of his strength of body and mind—and by far the most noteworthy figure which this surprising war has so far disclosed. Clemenceau sharply criticized him and the others of the general staff, but he, too, has reversed his judgment since the mobilization proved their foresight and complete organization of the military resources. A little more and General Joffre will be the incarnation of the soul of France in her life-and-death struggle.

Joffre was a first-year military engineer at the difficult Ecole Polytechnique, and only 17 years of age when the war of 1870 broke out. He enlisted and fought like the rest to the bitter end. He came out a lieutenant and was employed when peace allowed on the plans for the new fortifications of Paris. Marshal MacMahon, who was himself not a talker, noticed his calm silence amid the other officers in a visit to one of the forts, and unexpectedly saluted him. "My compliments, captain!" So he was a captain at 22, long before his time, and he was sent to organize the defenses of Pontarlier, just where the Germans, if they break through at Belfort, may now sweep down along the Swiss frontier. Then he went out to build forts in Tonkin; but Admiral Courbet, who was in charge, scented the born commander, and set him to fighting at the head of the troops. He was kept fighting next in Dalmatia, and he was the first to enter Timbuctoo—speaking never a word. He was silent in Madagascar, where he fortified Diego Suarez mightily. Back in France, he was made a professor at the higher war school, and became successively general of the brigade of Ustislav and of a corps d'armée. He came to have the confidence of all as a strategist and organizer—and, with all the radical hostility to the army, he was never reproached with reaction or not being faithful to the republic. When the nomination of general-in-chief had to be made by the higher war council, Gen. Pau, who lost his arm at Sedan, pointed with his remaining hand to Joffre—and the nomination was unanimous.

The public knows little of persons, but it knew that the law of three years' compulsory service, which has saved France, was due largely to Gen. Joffre's foresight. And these three weeks of his command have made confidence in him universal. Time will tell how far his silence will lead to victory; but, until now, no newspaper correspondent even knows where General-in-Chief Joffre and his headquarters were placed yesterday or today, or shall be tomorrow. "Joffre's headquarters?" said a military man who may have known and may not; "It's a monasteries!"

The pope who has just died would have liked that figure of speech, for he more than once expressed his opinion that even his monks talked too much. Perhaps this all but universal war will drift suffering humanity toward a new era where silence shall be appreciated as strength. And this time let it be noted while it lasts, the silent man is the Frenchman—the silent man is the Frenchman.

Next session of registrars will be held today at 12 o'clock from 12 m. to 10 p. m. This will be the last chance to register for the state election.

BOSTON'S POSTMASTER TELLS BUSINESS MEN HOW TO BECOME COMMERCIAL CHAMPIONS

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—If Boston business men will use the same sacrifice to further the commercial fortunes of Boston that Hank Gowdy did on Monday to bring victory to the Braves' banner, Boston will be in as commanding a position commercially as the Braves will be in baseball after today's game," said Postmaster William F. Murray at the assembly luncheon of the Boston chamber of commerce at the American house yesterday noon.

"In the 12th inning," he continued, "Gowdy knocked a two-bagger. When he arrived at second he called for some one who was a swifter runner than he to come and take his place, so that there would be no chance of his slow running making a double play possible. In spite of the chance to score the winning run and the glory that would go with it, Gowdy sacrificed his own feelings for the play that would win. Let Boston business men take this example to heart."

The Peruvian minister, Frederico Alfonso Bezan, an ardent baseball fan, responded to Mayor Curley's remark that the minister had shut the Peruvian legation up and come to Boston for the games, said:

"I wish to say that instead of shutting the legation up for the ball games, I brought it with me. As a matter of fact, wherever the minister is there the legation is located.

Yesterday the Peruvian legation watched the Braves win their third straight."

John J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, announced that all the players of that team are signed up for next year, and that he expects that next season the champions of the two leagues, both of Boston, will play against each other for the world's championship at Fenway park.

Mayor Curley, who acted as toastmaster, made a plea for better trade relations with Peru and the rest of South America, incidentally informing the gathering that Boston now has the lowest death rate of any city in the United States for per capita wealth.

At the last moment, Gov. Tener, Augustus Herrmann and Ben B. Johnson, the league magnates, were obliged to forego the luncheon because of matters that had to be settled before the game.

Mr. Hartford tried to present a list of the nominations to the secretary of state, who, saying the progressive ticket already was on file, refused to receive Mr. Hartford's papers.

PROGRESSIVES SEEK WRIT

ASK THAT SECRETARY OF STATE BE COMPELLED TO ACCEPT NOMINATION IN RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 14.—Leaders of one faction of the progressive party in Rhode Island petitioned the state supreme court yesterday for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept progressive nominees.

The convention endorsed R. Livingston Beckman for governor, and all the other republican nominees for general state offices except J. Emery San Souci for lieutenant governor, for which place Walter G. Hartford, a progressive, was named. A previous progressive convention had nominated a straight party ticket.

Mr. Hartford tried to present a list of the nominations to the secretary of state, who, saying the progressive ticket already was on file, refused to receive Mr. Hartford's papers.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepto, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

RED CROSS NEEDS FUNDS

SOCIETIES OVERWHELMED AND ABLE TO GIVE LITTLE ASSISTANCE TO SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Foreign Red Cross societies are overwhelmed and able to give little assistance to the sufferers of the war, says an official statement issued last night by Red Cross headquarters here. The situation in territories where the contending armies have been engaged, the statement says, is beyond description.

An unnamed American army officer just returned from the war zone, is quoted as saying that "in one little country church he saw 400 badly wounded soldiers who also suffered from hunger. Red Cross representatives could give them scant attention."

"That poor fellow will die in a little while," said a surgeon to the American when the latter started to give assistance to one soldier. "You can give him a piece of bread, but it will not do him any good. You had better give it to one of the men who has a chance of recovery."

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

PRETTY ANKLES

Pretty ankles are a rarity and not the rule. It is a pity too, as nowadays a woman's ankle is quite prominent, because of the short skirts and low shoes mode of dressing.

If you want your ankles to be well shaped, don't stand on the sides of your feet. If you have any inclination to do so, your feet need more support than your shoes are giving them. Get a pair of arch supports and wear them until the inclination no longer exists.

Just as harmful as standing on the sides of your feet is the habit of turning them sideways when you are sitting down. Keep your feet firmly planted on the heel and sole at all times. Such measures will help, but not wholly cure.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

That our Fish and Game association is wide awake in the interests of fishermen and hunters is shown in their action by endorsing a live man for the position of fish and game commissioner in the person of Willis S. Holt. It is high time the county was represented on the state board and the present time is ripe for action since an important term expires in December. It is felt that with Mr. Holt as a commissioner conditions would greatly improve. We could hope for some effective regulations in force relative to fishing in our streams and ponds and something done to keep the highways open on the Merrimack from the lake to the sea. Just at present the local Locomotive people and the Amoskeag folks in New Hampshire seem to be bigger than the people of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, while fish hogs and divers violators of the fish laws work their own sweet will. Speaking of fishing, I heard something the other day interesting to trollers. A young man of this city recently married and went on his honeymoon to Ellington, a little New Hampshire town which lies between Ossipee and the Maine line and is about 50 miles from Lowell as the crow flies. He declared that the brooks in that town were literally alive with trout and he saw none less than 12 inches long. Although the law was on his side and used to his heart's content and managed to win his honeymoon immensely in consequence.

New here's a hint to lovers of trout fishing—but it doesn't necessarily improve. They are newly wed. Take next season, a train over the Rochester road and get off at Center Street and strike Ellington where it isn't crowded. For its position is something like 1500 feet above the Hudson and the Hudson tells the truth, for all the brooks are models of truth and reliability until the Merrimack waters.

And speaking of hunting, Henry Williams, the attendant, officer and assistant accountant of the department of school supplies, described to me just how he landed a six and a half lbs. from the waters of Canopic one morning of last August. During the most summer time Henry has had, even on the shores of Canopic, the best of these many seasons. What he does know about Canopic isn't worth nothing particularly as to the trout or the inhabitants of that beautiful sheet of water. The morning that Henry made his great catch he got up an early breakfast, and putting together his dollar rod which is equipped with the very latest winkle to go to bed in and he hopped into his boat and so was at the right spot. Now Henry has had some descriptive powers and could I faithfully reproduce his words, I know, I could. I would quote every member of the Fish and Game Association, jump sympathetic Joe, as I can't do it, it is easier to say that he is after a few trout and right here let it be known that Henry is as like a master as ever lost a fish something sterner his temper was with promise. Then there was more interesting and exciting moments in the life of every boy

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

MAKING RUGS OF CARPETS

"Oh dear," sighed Marjorie. "I've got to take up the carpets in the living and dining rooms this fall and have them thoroughly cleaned. They do get so terribly dirty."

"Why don't you get rid of carpet?" queried Marie. "Stain your floors now, this fall. Any woman can stain any floor, filling in the cracks with putty. If you do not want to do the entire floor, stain a border around the edge, or put linoleum down, back up and paint the back. It takes paint nicely. You can also buy filler."

"It imitates hardwood flooring, and is most reasonable. Indeed, it will cost you little to fix your floors whether you use stain, paint, linoleum, or the filler."

"Then cut down your carpet until it is a size to take up and whip in the back yard occasionally; just lay it in one room."

"A housewife, I once knew, who did not have hardwood floors, but who had very good floors, oiled them well without first painting. The result was pleasing. She polishes them with a mop every week, and puts on fresh oil about once a month. She has children and lives very sensibly, with furniture that will stand usage and no useless hangings to the camp-like character of the home."

"I'll tell you how easily our fall cleaning has come along. All summer I have dusted every day and I've used an oil mop on my floors and a hand vacuum cleaner on the three or four rugs I left down. Indeed, I have allowed the minimum amount of dust to accumulate, although I could not prevent it rolling in."

"Next week the cleaners will come and take away three or four rugs. We will not miss them when the others, those packed away, are down. Then we will have a woman come for two days and I will help her. We do one room at a time moving all the furniture out of that room. With a rag and a step ladder she will wipe down every wall and ceiling; she will wash the woodwork and floors in cold water, and then she will oil the floor."

"I myself have polished and oiled all the furniture a day or two before and have dusted every book and piled it away in a closet. So, when she moves the furniture back for me, I have only to settle the room while she starts on the next chamber. You do not know how little time it takes. I have had only two or three small pictures on the wall since April. The rest were cleaned and packed away."

Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered deodorant and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real deodorant.

An engineer who had ear trouble for years finally became so deaf he could not hear the sound of a steam engine, bell or voices. Not being able to hear, he was compelled to give up his position. His case seemed hopeless. His deafness was aggravated by head disturbances, dry cough, nervousness and drowsiness.

To the surprise of all, he began to hear and continued improving until he could distinguish conversations, could hear a train in the distance and could the singing of the birds in the trees. His head and nerves became tranquil. He got his position back again. This was no miracle, no surgery, no artificial hearing devices, no electrical apparatus, no loss of time.

When this is beginning, he can obtain particular help by writing to Edward Gregory, 58 Forbes Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

OPENING OF THE EVENING SCHOOLS

Large Attendance at All the Schools, Chiefly at High School

PRINCIPAL THOMAS F. FISHER,
Of the Vocational School

Vocational School Has Increased Attendance Over Last Year

Last night marked the opening of the evening schools for the fall and winter seasons. An ordinary, not extraordinary attendance, was reported at all of the schools, the high, elementary and vocational schools. The registration will compare favorably with that of a year ago.

The actual attendance at the high school last night was 804. The registration for the opening night was 919. Principal Thomas G. Robbins thinks that the registration this year will not exceed that of four years ago, when the largest number in the history of the high school registered. The total registration this year will be over 1100. The civil service class promises to be popular and one of the most useful in the school.

There were 260 girls on hand for the opening of the vocational school on Common street. In the men's departments 81 appeared for the classes. The total registration of the school is about 500 girls and 150 men. The machine class last evening was crowded with men anxious to improve in practice work.

TO ADVANCE THAW CASE

MOTION MADE IN SUPREME COURT —CHANCE FOR "UNWRITTEN LAW" DECISION REMOVED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Motions were made in the supreme court yesterday to advance the extradition case of Harry K. Thaw and the Danbury Hatters' case, in which the Hatters' union was held liable for $252,000 damages under the Sherman antitrust law.

Failure of Carl Oliver of Texas to have the record in his case printed resulted yesterday in the dismissal by the supreme court of his appeal from a conviction of murder and removed the possibility of the court announcing its position on the "unwritten law."

Oliver shot a white man in company with his wife. His appeal to the supreme court claimed the trial judge should have charged the jury that a negro has the same right to defend the honor of his home as a white man.

Candidate for Alderman in Everett Assails High Tax Rate and Present Administration at Rally

EVERETT, Oct. 14.—The municipal campaign in this city opened yesterday with an open-air rally in the interest of John J. Mullen, candidate for alderman in ward 4, at the corner of Union and Malden streets, East Everett.

THE ROMANCE CLUB

The "Romance Club" held its regular meeting last evening at the home of Miss Ethel Erickson, in Cadell avenue. Miss Margaret O'Donoghue was unanimously chosen president, while Miss Ida Brooks and Miss Mary Queenan were chosen secretary and treasurer respectively. An excellent musical program was carried out, including solos by Miss Anna Owen, Miss Lillian Dow and Miss Anna Curran, assisted by the other members.

Supper was served and the party broke up at a seasonable hour, voting to hold the next meeting at the home of Miss Ida Brooks.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

Tomorrow the semi-weekly change of program at the Opera House occurs, and another of those farcical musical comedies which have met with such popular favor is to be presented by the Raymond "Teal" Musical company, entitled "The Irish Christening." This screaming farce has been a riot when ever presented and it gives "Jimmie" Lee, the manager of the theater, great pleasure in which they show to their best advantage. The young ladies in the chorus will be seen in all new specialties, while the scene production carried for this performance will be up to the standard set by the management since their first appearance in this city of "Nothing Cheap but the Prices."

Tonight is the "Country Store," when many useful articles are to be given away to the persons holding the lucky coupons, and the management wishes to state that nothing will be given but what is needed, up to the one article a set. The prices will remain the same, 10 cents for any seat at the matinees, and 15 and 20 cents at night. Seats may be reserved in advance by calling at the Gorham street box office or calling telephone 201.

B. F. KEEPS THEATRE

"The Lollipop," with its wealth of bright lines and its unusual theme and situations, is one of the features of the B. F. Keith theatre this week. Pretty Regina Connell and her able supporting company, with Marriet Marlotte in a splendid role, give one of the best one-act comedies seen here in a long time. The basis upon which the play was written is not only new but original, and while it easily stands the test of time, it is a tale that actually happened and will surely appeal to you on account of its human appeal.

You will like it.

Then there are two Kippy Komedies to round out one of the most perfect programs ever shown in any theatre, no matter what the price of admission charged.

"Candy and Bullets" is a Keystone "Vine" picture, is the title of another remarkable feature to be included in the show. Here is a story that will reach home, as it is a tale that actually happened and will surely appeal to you on account of its human appeal.

You will like it.

There are two Kippy Komedies to round out one of the most perfect programs ever shown in any theatre, no matter what the price of admission charged.

"Candy and Bullets" is a Keystone.

No more need be said about that.

"Bill Manager & Prize Flight" is from the famous Komie studios and features everybody's favorite comedian, "Bill."

There are a number of other classy numbers to make this show one that you will talk about for weeks after it is gone.

Friday night, as usual, will be given over to the amateurs, with Bill Lovett as master of ceremonies and Mrs. Dora White, the noted soprano, singing music box.

On Saturday afternoon free candy will be distributed to every boy and girl attending the matinee performance.

There will also be a special program for the kiddies, including a number of war pictures taken in Europe.

THE OWL THEATRE

Villains galore, romance and weirdness are interwoven in a clever manner in Wednesday and Thursday's special attraction at the Owl theatre. It is a stupendous six-reel masterpiece of photo-playing, telling a most baffling and most interesting story of titled lords and men of the underworld, who fight for a title. As the play progresses scenes are shown with the devil prompting the unnatural son to make Nathaniel Rounds, Velma Jenkins, General Frost and Eloise Bishop. The starting under the personal direction of William B. Freeman is also adequate.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Probably the most sensational feature melodrama ever projected on a screen is "The Iron Man," which is to be the chief attraction at the Academy of Music today and tomorrow.

This wonderful masterpiece has been fibbed with a lavish disregard for either money or personal danger.

It is a story of how a detective, single-handed, tracked down, ran down and captured the sleekest gang of crooks and conspirators in the history of romantic criminology.

Every trick known to mechanical and electrical science was used by the gang of social outlaws, but the keen brain of the brilliant hoodlum always found a way to circumvent them and came out triumphant with the last born ramifications in handcuffs.

In one scene the detective walks into a trap cleverly set for him. He is bound and gagged and thrown into a subterranean passage. Here he liberates himself by short-circuiting a 600 volt electric circuit and burning his bonds by means of the death dealing electric torch.

This picture was secured by the management of the academy at considerable expense, but the price of admission will not be raised. However, it will be impossible to exhibit this masterpiece after Thursday evening, as it goes direct from here to one of the largest theatres in Boston for a long run.

"Comet No. 1417" or "A Modern Rip Van Winkle" is the title of another remarkable feature to be included in the show. Here is a story that will reach home, as it is a tale that actually happened and will surely appeal to you on account of its human appeal.

You will like it.

Then there are two Kippy Komedies to round out one of the most perfect programs ever shown in any theatre, no matter what the price of admission charged.

"Candy and Bullets" is a Keystone.

No more need be said about that.

"Bill Manager & Prize Flight" is from the famous Komie studios and features everybody's favorite comedian, "Bill."

There are a number of other classy numbers to make this show one that you will talk about for weeks after it is gone.

Friday night, as usual, will be given over to the amateurs, with Bill Lovett as master of ceremonies and Mrs. Dora White, the noted soprano, singing music box.

On Saturday afternoon free candy

will be distributed to every boy and girl attending the matinee performance.

There will also be a special program for the kiddies, including a number of war pictures taken in Europe.

THE OWL THEATRE

Villains galore, romance and weirdness are interwoven in a clever manner in Wednesday and Thursday's special attraction at the Owl theatre. It is a stupendous six-reel masterpiece of photo-playing, telling a most baffling and most interesting story of titled lords and men of the underworld, who fight for a title. As the play progresses scenes are shown with the devil prompting the unnatural son to make trouble for the rightful heir. This, however, does not spoil the play, in fact, it adds a new charm to the melodrama and the result is highly satisfactory.

The wrong son gets a good break from his mother, she is the mother of the whole bunch, but he finds means to make the letter appear in his favor, and the rightful one finds himself in a bad predicament. Finally after a long series of adventures, he is restored to his place, and the wrong man is punished. The love story is carried through the play with great interest and has a charm all its own. The management desirous to please has booked an 11-reel performance for these two days, five other reels from the regular Mutual service having been booked as usual. Among the best of the regular pictures are "Billy's Friend," a rugged auto drama, a comedy drama of exceptional merit, "Jane the Justice" is a play that will surely please by its intelligent technique, and good acting. "The Sham Sister" is a good two-part drama that keeps one spellbound from start to finish. "Hello, Blanche" is the Keystone offering for these days. No one talking about Keystone comedies, they all know them. A change of program Friday with Blanche Walsh in "Resurrection."

BUY CLOTH RATHER THAN COTTON

A great many newspapers of influence are pointing out what they consider an inconsistency in the "Buy-a-bale-of-cotton" movement, and it must be confessed with good logic and rather convincing arguments. While approving of the spirit, they hold that a movement to buy cotton cloth would have had the same effect on the south while it would benefit other branches of the cotton business as well and confer a more practical benefit on those who would thereby mix philanthropy and shrewd business sense in good proportion. "It would be a much more effective movement," says the Manchester Union, "for every one in the United States to buy cotton cloth. There are few families in which an entire 'cut' of cotton cloth could not be made good use of in one way or another, and if one-half the families in the United States should buy one-half as much, there would be a demand which would set every cotton mill at work overtime while its buying agents were hustling about to buy raw cotton, not by the bale but by the carload and shipload."

To help the cotton crop of the south is an excellent thing, but what of the other crops that have suffered owing to the war in Europe? Almost all agricultural products have been affected and of all so affected, perhaps the cotton crop has been most fortified by past profits. The cotton manufacturers have held that for years the price of cotton has been kept high artificially, and they cannot be blamed if they feel that the end desired would be achieved quite as well if the manufacturer were helped directly with an indirect benefit to the producer. It is certain that the possession of a large supply of cotton cloth does not entitle the speculating features of the posse of a bale of cotton which is held for high prices.

Another consideration that hems the buying of cloth rather than the bale is the fact that with the shortage of other textile products, there will be an unusually large demand for cotton in a few months with possibly a natural effect on prices. Not only will the foreign market for cotton cloth be increased but it will be bought more generally in our own country. Incidentally, the general buying of large quantities of cotton would benefit Lowell far more than high prices of raw cotton in the south. It is worth thinking over.

DANGER TO TRAFFIC

Sometimes without anybody in particular being at fault a combination of circumstances entails grave danger to the community or that part of it vitally interested. One cannot reasonably attribute the responsibility, perhaps, to any individual or group, but the experience has warnings for the future. Those who lingered in the lower part of Belvidere for any time Sunday morning may readily apply that reasoning to a tragic danger in that vicinity that all but had most serious consequences.

It would seem that very late Saturday or early on Sunday a city sprinkler passed over East Merrimack street and into high, leaving a very liberal supply of water on slate. A few days before, Neamith street and other streets in the neighborhood had received their third or fourth application of oil. Apparently a pretty thick coat of oil had settled over the entire moist section and over all the falling leaves had spread a pretty treacherous carpet. About 10 o'clock a thick slimy paste was spread over the steep hill from High street to the Immaculate Conception church—a paste made of oil, water, dust and rotting leaves. Let anybody should think this criticism superficial, those who stayed for any length of time in the vicinity can testify to the many narrow escapes that resulted.

East Merrimack street is used a great deal by automobileists coming into the city, and many of those who drove from Belvidere on Sunday were totally unprepared for the condition of the hill. The day was clear and cool and there was nothing to indicate the danger spot. Accordingly ever after car drove down at a fair rate and skidded for a considerable distance. One skidded almost entirely across the street, at the base of the hill, ran onto the sidewalk and was stopped only by crashing into a pole. The occupants of the car luckily escaped injury but the car was towed to a nearby garage. Within five minutes a little car occupied by two young men had a similar escape. So common was the occurrence that the groups at the corners throughout watched every car coming into town to note the result. Had there been a serious accident—as there well might have been—the public would be laid in a criticism of the management that made such a condition possible.

Now the city seemed prevent dust from settling on the streets and it cannot help gather leaves on the trees, but it can postpone sprinkling water on a steep hill, when to do so sprinkle it entails very real danger. It may be that previous rains have washed a considerable quantity of oil into the gutters from upper Belvidere, but an effort should be made to provide against such emergencies. The tires of autos running over the oil-soaked section are prepared to skid very nicely without the doubly dangerous addition of a oily-like paste that makes it impossible for a car to go at any speed with safety. At such a long and well-paved corner as this, the street should be kept in good condition and care should be taken in sprinkling or oiling that the interests of the public are safeguarded. Accidents of auto accidents are happening enough when they happen at a distance; we should provide against them in this city by every means in our power.

ing is an extract from the Brockton Times:

"We take the following from the Salem News: 'At a fire drill yesterday morning in the High school the 320 pupils who were out in the building at the time passed out in perfect order in the short time of two minutes and fifty seconds. Considering that none of the pupils knew that there was to be a fire drill until the signal of five bells was heard, the time was very short.'

That would hardly do for practice. We have over 1500 pupils in our High school here, and they have been all in clear of the school building in one minute and twenty-five seconds on a local fire department for the past few days, even snappier than that, but there are a few more pupils in the school now, than there were in 1913. Last season's record was 172 seconds. The Salem boys and girls did well, and where they can all get clear of a building in a little over two minutes there is no danger of being caught by a very evident in the frantic efforts now fire; but Salem must speed up if it is to discredit the national wants to be considered in the case of administration. For the past few weeks anything that carries the democratic stamp has been shouted down by the management of our high school and, in fact, the entire Lowell public. How does Lowell's record compare with the other two?

SEEN AND HEARD

Happiness is contagious. But lots of us are human.

About the only time a married man is right is when he admits that he is wrong.

Somehow or other the things that you get for nothing always manage to figure in the high cost of living.

You can always find hospitality in a hotel because you are expected to pay what it is worth.

A girl can make love to a man and make him believe that he is doing all the love making.

Weather forecasters and doctors can get paid for guessing. But the rest of us have to be accurate.

After a man has been married for a while he imagines that when a woman's feet are not hurting her she is having a headache.

The lad who lets his wife take in washing so he can sit in the same following that the Robber Trust is ruining this country.

A woman doesn't pay a bit of attention to what her husband says all day. But she is afraid to close her eyes at night if he talks in his sleep.

The sort of girl who is chummy with her mother usually manages to take care of herself without the assistance of a chaperone.

If you will say nothing, be nothing and do nothing, you can always be reasonably certain that you won't have any enemies.

A fellow with an automobile and an extra ticket for the world series is inviting you to be his guest for the afternoon is plated with the things that never happen.

A woman always judges a new neighbor by the way the furniture looks in the moving van. But a man remembers how his furniture looked last time he moved.

Let us be fair. If a man didn't hog all his change for his personal comforts, and went 50-50 with his wife, the joke about her taking his pockets at night would soon die for want of nourishment.

When two men are extremely polite to each other it is a sign that they don't like each other. But when they say: "Hello, you ornery old pup!" and

BAD COLD? TAKE CASCARETS FOR BOWELS TONIGHT

No headache, constipation, bad cold or sour stomach by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Slick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; decayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver clean and bowel regular for months.

Heat Treatment of Steel Parts Plays Important Part in Work
—Other Auto News

Heat treatment of steel parts, especially the drop forged parts, plays a very important part in the automobile industry, though the value of such treatment, according to Elwood Haynes, pioneer auto builder of Kokomo, Indiana, is little appreciated by the average owner on account of his lack of knowledge in regard to its possibilities.

Steel is a mixture of free carbon, carbon combined with iron, and what is known as a solid solution of carbon in iron. The hardness and toughness of the steel depends upon the condition that this carbon exists in the steel. Heat treating in its elementary form consists in heating the steel to a few degrees above what is termed the critical temperature of the particular steel, and then suddenly cooling the steel.

War Tax Measure

Automobilists throughout the country are thoroughly aroused at the evident desire on the part of certain national legislators to place upon motor car owners a large percentage of the amount to be derived from the war tax measure.

State and local clubs of the American Automobile Association almost unanimously responded to the call of the Metropolitan Section of the Society of Automobile Engineers, and president of the Cyclocar Club of New York, says:

"Every motorist operating a water-cooled car should realize that cylinders and radiator are liable to freeze when the temperature falls below 32 degrees Fahrenheit. This necessitates the addition to the cooling water of a safe and economical medium which will lower its freezing temperature. Salt, calcium chloride and gasoline motor cars were called

To Prevent Freezing

Referring to winter motoring, Joseph A. Anglada, M. E., chairman of the Metropolitan Section of the Society of Automobile Engineers, and president of the Cyclocar Club of New York, says:

glycerine have been tried but are objectionable because of eventual injury to parts due to corrosion, electrolytic action and decomposition. Proprietary substances should be avoided unless their constituents are disclosed. My experiments prove that denatured alcohol (tax-free ethyl alcohol) is the best for the purpose because it is manufactured and sold under the supervision of the United States government. It is uniformly pure, besides being harmless, efficient and cheap. A quart to each gallon of water in the cooling system is sufficient to prevent freezing when the temperature reaches zero.

ECONOMIC DEFENSE BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The house of representatives in a session which was prolonged until 2 o'clock this morning considered the various provisions of the so-called national economic defense bill and passed several of them.

The most important of these provisions authorize the issue of a national coinage, including $12,000,000 in silver, sanction the giving of premiums for the cultivation of tobacco, authorize the president to issue bonds for $5,000,000 at 6 per cent; provide for the relief of agricultural laborers, especially in the tobacco fields, and consolidate the regular army and the rural guard.

RUDOLPH PITCHED FINAL GAME AND WON, 3 TO

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Oct. 13.—The Boston Braves are the world's baseball champions of 1914. They defeated the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon by a score of 3 to 1, winning the series with four straight games; the champions of the American League not capturing a contest.

Little Dick Rudolph pitched a masterful game, winning his second contest of the series today. The Philadelphians could not touch his elusive slow ball; when hits would have sent runs over the plate, the Boston outgamed and outplayed their opponents today in every department of the sport. They clinched their victory in the fifth inning after two men were out, with Rudolph's single. Moran's double and Evers' solid blow to center.

It is the first time that a world's series has been won in four straight games and after the last man was out the Athletics rushed over and congratulated their conquerors. The spectators were wild with joy and paraded the field singing and cheering.

Chiefly Evers took his place behind the plate. Hildebrand on the bases; Klein in left field; Dineen in right field.

First Inning.—Murphy was out. Evers to Smith. Oldring sent up a high foul to Gowdy and sat down. The Athletics were evidently not waiting. Rudolph out, but hitting at the first ball pitched, as the Boston pitcher was sticking them over. Collins singled over the middle station. Rudolph held Colling close to the bag to prevent a steal. Baker out on a fly to Whitted. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Baker threw out Moran. Evers was given a good hand when he came to the plate. He went out. Baker to McInnis, who made a pretty pick-up of Baker's low throw. Connolly flied out to Oldring. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.—Deal threw out McInnis, making a nice one-hand stop of McInnis' slow roller. Walsh doubled to the left field fence. Connolly missed the ball. Maranville threw out Barry at first. Walsh holding second. Schang fanned out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Whitted lined out to Oldring. It was a wicked hit ball, but Oldring was in the way. Shawkey threw out Schmidt. Gowdy walked. Barry took Maranville's grounder and tossed to Collins, forcing Gowdy. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning.—Shawkey struck out on three pitched balls. Deal threw out Murphy. Deal took the ball near the bag and had to make a snap throw to get the runner. Oldring singled to center. It was Oldring's first hit of the series. Oldring was out stealing. Gowdy to Evers. It was a snappy double play. Schang struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Collins threw out Maranville at first. Baker threw out Deal at first. Rudolph walked. Moran fanned out to Baker. No runs; no hits; no errors.

Eighth Inning.—Evers tossed out Pennock. Mann made a brilliant catch of Murphy's drive, cutting off a two-bagger. Oldring flied out to Evers. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Evers struck out. Collins threw out Mann at first. Whitted walked. Whited staled second. Whitted went on to third on a passed ball. Schmidt fanned out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning.—Collins fanned. Evers struck out. Baker. Baker threw out McInnis. The official box score:

CIVIL SERVICE SYSTEM

Register of Labor Comes to Lowell to Discuss Registration for City Laborers

No time has yet been set for the installation of the civil service system for the registration of city employees. John C. Gilhert, register of labor for the civil service commission, came to Lowell today and talked the matter over with Mayor Murphy and the local registration clerk, Patrick J. Reynolds.

It was agreed that the system shall be installed in the city hall basement registrars' department. The first booth to the left upon entering the registrars' office will be occupied by Mr. Reynolds. The time for receiving applications will be announced after the system has been installed.

All registration will be classified under the second division of the civil service and will include not only laborers, but tradesmen, such as carpenters, blacksmiths, plumbers, gas fitters, charcutiers, etc. All who are not obliged to take civil service examinations come under division two, while those who have to take examinations, bosses, clerks, etc., belong in division one.

Mr. Gilhert stated today that the men now employed by the city would not have to make application for registration. He said their names would go down on the list automatically. He also stated that the civil service does not draw the line between union and non-union men. The commission cannot afford, he said, to recognize unions.

Apart from the men now employed it will be a case of first come, first served. The man whose application is the first to land will be the first on the list and in the event of a man being laid off he may be reinstated within six months providing he was not let go for reasons sufficient to warrant permanent discharge.

If reinstated he will be entitled to his original position on the list, but if he is not reinstated within six months he will, if he makes application again, be obliged to take up his position at the foot of the list.

Preference must at all times be given citizens of the United States with extra preference for Lowell men.

If there are men now in the employ of the city who are not citizens or residents of Lowell they will have to give way to Lowell citizens.

Patrick J. Reynolds, the registration clerk, will be to all intents and purposes, a state officer. The city will pay him, but he will be under the direction and supervision of the civil service board. There is no doubt but what the installation of the civil service system will be a great relief for the heads of departments, for the commissioners will no longer have anything to do with putting men to work. It doesn't make any difference who the man is he will have to take his chances on the list. It will probably have the effect, too, of preventing men who work in the mills of throwing up their jobs there for the purpose of going to work for the city, as it would be more profitable for them to stick to the mill.

The cities of Springfield and Worcester are obliged to hire non-citizens as city laborers, but that is not Lowell's position.

Lowell does not have to go outside for city help. The trouble here is that there isn't work enough to go round.

MATRIMONIAL

Jesse Alexandre, a well known resident of Fitchburg, and Miss Blanche German were married yesterday morning, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock in the private chapel of St. Joseph's rectory, the officiating clergyman being a brother of the bridegroom, Rev. William Alexandre of Milbury, Mass. The witnesses were J. W. Alexandre, brother of the bridegroom and a brother-in-law of the bride, Victor Achin. At the close of the ceremony an informal reception for the relatives of the couple was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. W. Alexandre, 197 White street. The couple left on the 9:45 o'clock train for Boston and Arctic Centre, R. I. They will return to Lowell Saturday and will make their home at 433 Moody street.

ATTACKS WAR REVENGE BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Senator Gronna of North Dakota joined in the republican attack today on the war revenue bill. The real reason, he said, for levying additional taxes was found when total appropriations for the fiscal year were considered. The falling off in customs receipts due to the European war, he maintained, would be nowhere near $100,000,000, while appropriations for this fiscal year exceeded those of last year by more than $32,000,000.

The North Dakota senator disagreed with President Wilson in the latter's position that the government funds on deposit with the banks should not be withdrawn.

BUILDING PERMIT

Mr. George M. Harrigan has been granted a permit for improvements, including additions and alterations, to his dwelling at 61 Marlboro street. The additions will include a dining room and pantry on the first floor; chamber, bath and sleeping porch on the second floor, and front and back porches. The estimated cost of the additions and alterations is $5000.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

Please tell me whether I should precede a caller or let the caller go ahead when I entertain," asked Grace.

"It does not make a great deal of difference whether you lead the way into the living room or request your guest to go ahead of you. When there are servants the maid or butler leads the way and sounds while the guests enter the room," answered her aunt.

"Kindly tell me how a widow's card should be engraved," asked a recently bereaved girl.

"A widow is at liberty to retain her husband's Christian name on her card, or to substitute for it her own, as, for example, the widow of Frank Willing Smith may have her cards read either Mrs. Frank Smith, or Mrs. Mary Louise Smith. Very frequently a widow uses her maiden surname with the surname of her deceased husband," answered her sympathetic mother.

"When going to a seat near the wall, in any kind of an audience, should I face the people whom I am passing or should I turn my back to them?" asked Mildred.

"It should be done in a dignified manner, and it is more convenient to turn one's back to the persons seated if

PORTUGAL DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

Attempt of Germans to Crush Right Wing of Allies Continues--Paris Says Operations of Allies are Developing Normally

GERMANS PREPARE TO ATTACK BELFORT

50,000 Germans in Ghent—Russians Evacuate Lemberg, Galicia, After Fierce Fight—Gen. Marcot, Noted French Leader, Killed—Belgian Government Reestablished at Havre—Russians and Germans in Great Battle—Paris Denies Berlin Reports

Madrid sends a report from Lisbon that Portugal has declared war on Germany. Portugal has a treaty with Great Britain by which she agrees to furnish 10,000 men when they are required.

The attempt of the Germans to crush the right wing of the allies in the old French province of Picardy continues with little to indicate the course of the battle.

This afternoon's French official statement says that the operations of the allies as far as the Oise are developing normally.

Of scarcely less importance and with the same ultimate object in view, is the struggle of the Germans from Antwerp to reach the coast. Nothing definite of this situation has been revealed. Paris announces that there was fighting in the region of Ghent Tuesday and that English and French troops have occupied Ypres, 30 miles southwest of Bruges.

A report from The Hague is that 50,000 Germans have entered Ghent, a large number of them later leaving for Bruges with the purpose of continuing to Ostend.

A despatch from Ostend says that only a few Belgian and British remain in Ostend, indicating that the allied armies have gone east to meet the oncoming Germans.

The Belgian government has now been re-established at Havre, France.

A Petrograd despatch says it is believed there that a great battle between the Russians and the Austro-German forces is being waged along the Vistula river at points not revealed. The Germans made an aeroplane attack on Nancy Tuesday, pitting a railroad train and injuring three persons.

It is reported from Berlin that the Germans are preparing to attack the French fortified city of Belfort.

The former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which were sold to Turkey, are said to have appeared in the Black sea.

The British ambassador at Constantinople has requested the women of the embassy to leave on Monday, according to a despatch from Amsterdam.

VERDICT FOR $500
A verdict of $500 for the plaintiff was reported by a jury in superior court this forenoon in the case of Rice vs. Boston & Maine railroad, an action of tort in which the plaintiff asked for damages sustained when he was struck by a grade crossing gate at Lincoln. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon. H. D. McLellan for the plaintiff and Trull & Wier for the defense.

The Boston & Maine railroad company was also defendant in the case which was tried today, Marion S. Cole of Waltham being the plaintiff. Miss Cole, who was injured in a collision of trains while on her way from Boston to Waltham, claims damages for personal injuries to the amount of $15,000. The accident occurred on Nov. 11, 1912, and the plaintiff alleges that she was disabled for a long time afterward. Georgia L. Mayberry of Boston for the plaintiff and Trull & Wier for the defense.

THINGS ARE BOOMING AT THE BOULEVARD

AT WORK ON FILTRATION PLANT

Water Department Rushing Preliminary Work on New Filtration Plant—Contractor Gow Installs Portable Saw Mill, Stone Crusher and Concrete Mixers—Operations to be Continued as Long as Weather Will Permit

About 60 men in the employ of the water department are excavating for the cement work in connection with the filtration plant, so that the great mound of sand thrown up on the opposite side of the boulevard from the pumping station does not represent war-like encroachments but a ray of hope for better water for Lowell. It represented part of the preliminary work in connection with the installation of the filtration plant and the work is being rushed as rapidly as possible.

The men from the water department are laying pipe to clean the filters and they are also installing drain pipe to carry off the water from the filters.

Contractor Gow has installed a big stone crusher and two concrete mixers. The concrete is all ready for the clear water basin and things are moving right along. If the weather holds good the contractor expects to continue operations until about the second week in January.

Filtered Water Reservoir

The purification or filtration plant will be under process of construction, will be located on the north side of the boulevard, immediately opposite the lower pumping station. It will consist of six coke profilers, 10 feet in depth and two-fifths of an acre in total area; a settling basin divided into two units, with a total capacity of 600,000 gallons; six sand filters, with a total area of one acre; and a filtered water reservoir of 1,000,000 gallons capacity.

Over the inner walls of the prefilters, a superstructure is to be built, so as to provide an operating gallery under cover. Immediately in front of this building and connected thereto, a headhouse and laboratory will be located and practically all the operations involved in the control of the plant will be concentrated in this central structure, which contains the main valves and the recording apparatus.

The present Holly pump will be used to draw water from the wells and lift it to the prefilters. After passing through the coke, the water will flow through oreline boxes, by which the prefilter rate will be determined and recorded, thence through the settling basins to the sand filters, from which it will return through effluent pipes and Venturi meters to the headhouse, and finally flow through a conduit in the central wall of the settling basins to the filtered water reservoir, from which it will be lifted by new steam turbine driven centrifugal pumps, located in a small extension of the present station, into the force main leading to the West Sixth St. station.

At a rate of 75 million gallons per acre per day through the prefilters, and a 10 million gallon rate through the sand filters, the areas provided will be equal to a 10 million gallon daily output, allowing for cleaning and for the possible desirability of a lower rate through the coke, the plant will be ample for an average daily supply of 7,500,000 to 8,500,000 gallons, or—if the past growth of the population in Lowell holds in the future—sufficient to the needs of the city until 1935.

Provided has been made for great elasticity in the plant so that the method of operation can be adapted to any variable conditions which may develop in the water.

All structures are designed to be of the most permanent character; the sand filters, settling basins and filtered water reservoir will be roofed by concrete groined arches and covered with soil and grass. The superstructures will be of the same material as that of which the lower boulevard station is built.

STALLINGS TELLS HOW

Manager of Braves Calls Evers
Pivot of Machine—Maranville
Best Since Cobb Arrived—The Pitchers Will be Better Next
Year

By GEORGE T. STALLINGS.

Manager of the World's Champions.

In the fall of 1912, after I signed a contract to manage the Boston club, Fred Gaffney said to me:

"Now understand, if you accept this proposition you are absolutely the manager of this club in every sense of the word. You can buy or sell whatever you please. I want you to take this club and run it just as if you owned it and your own money were at stake."

Totals of that sort was a great pleasure to me, for since my entrance into baseball as a manager I have either owned or had a big interest in every club with which I have been connected, except the Yankees, and to receive was a very nice touch.

When the Murphy episode of Cheers broke out at the February meeting of the National League in New York and Johnny Evers was likely to be put on the market I immediately

got busy, with the result that we paid

more real money for him than ever before paid for a ball player.

This was the best investment our club

has made, for with Johnny as our captain he has given us all there is in him, and there are few people who can realize what that means.

He entered the ranks as a private,

with the greatest spirit I have ever seen in a club. He was the turning point that gave us a great infusion which made us champions for 1913.

Our club broke all world's records for the number of double plays with either Evers or Maranville as the pivot at point. Johnny has been not only an ideal captain, but a wonderful second baseman, and a man whose every honorable interest was for the club.

We opened the season of 1913 with only Tyler, Hess, Maranville and Perdue of the original club. While we all realized that Perdue is a real pitcher,

the weather of Boston was against him, as he is strictly a hot weather

workman. We traded him out to St.

Louis for Cather and Whitted. These players came to me about the time our club began to return to good condition and added wonderful value to us.

Shortly afterward we purchased

"Red" Smith from Brooklyn, a man whose value cannot be estimated, and a few weeks later we purchased Herbert Moran from Cincinnati. These deals, with a wonderful improvement

in our pitching under the careful watch of Fred Mitchell, started our spectacular upward climb and we improved every day until we landed the National League championship and were still improving when the World's Series started.

We exhibited a fighting spirit that did not know defeat, but we still looked upon the so-called "wise" business public as an obstacle which the Athletics could always get out of the park

when the big series started.

The result left those "wise" people in a very dazed condition, although after the first game.

We finished the series with a record of 11 wins and 4 losses.

After the series we had a little trouble with the Boston fans.

FOR BELGIAN CHILDREN

BOSTON MAN RESPONDS TO STIRRING APPEAL FROM DAUGHTER IN ENGLAND

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Stirred by an appeal from his daughter, Mrs. Richard Howarth, of Hale, Cheshire, England, formerly Pauline Firth, the noted horsewoman and golfer, who wrote describing the terrible condition of thousands of Belgian children, driven from their homes and country without even sufficient clothes to cover them, William Firth, an importer of textile machinery with an office at 290 Devonshire street, has begun a campaign to get clothing for the Belgians in England.

Three days ago Mr. Firth announced his intention. The response to his appeal has been generous. At once checks and packages of clothing began to flow into his office. Already he has sent twenty cases, containing 10,000 pieces of clothing suitable for men, women and children to Manchester, England, and has secured a total of $2500 in cash and clothing.

Mrs. Howarth will personally supervise its distribution.

Thousands of children of all ages are now scattered throughout the towns and villages of England. As they arrived at the seaport towns they were sent to families inland.

Mrs. Howarth saw some of the little refugees in her village. Not only were they unkempt and uncared for, but many had even been atrociously mutilated, according to Mrs. Howarth. In a letter to her father she writes:

"Picture little tots, boys and girls, with their hands and ears cut off. I saw one little girl whose ears had been struck off close to her head. The children are in an awful state. They need clothing, hats, caps, shoes, everything and anything will help. If you can get any of these things, no matter what their style, cut or anything else, as long as they are clothing, they will be a godsend. I will personally distribute what you send. What I cannot use to advantage hereabouts, I will take to London with me and give out there."

FRANCE LOVES JOFFRE

CHARACTERISTICS OF SILENT MAN WHO IS INCARNATION OF THE SOUL OF FRANCE

Like William the Silent and Molikko, who was "silent in seven languages," Gen. Joffre is notably taciturn, and he has been silent through a laborious military career of 44 years. He is now 61, but still in the full vigor of his strength of body and mind—and by far the most noteworthy figure which this surprising war has so far disclosed. Clemenceau sharply criticized him and the others of the general staff, but he, too, has reversed his judgment since the mobilization proved their foresight and complete organization of the military resources. A little more and General Joffre will be the incarnation of the soul of France in her life-and-death struggle.

Joffre was a first-year military engineer at the difficult Ecole Polytechnique, and only 17 years of age when the war of 1870 broke out. He enlisted and fought like the rest to the bitter end. He came out a Lieutenant and was employed, when peace allowed, on the plans for the new fortifications of Paris. Marshal MacMahon, who was himself not a talker, noticed his calm silence amid the other officers in a visit to one of the forts, and unexpectedly saluted him—"My compliments, captain!" So he was a captain at 22, long before his time; and he was sent to organize the defenses of Pontarlier, just where the Germans, if they break through at Belfort, may now sweep down along the Swiss frontier. Then he went out to build forts in Tonkin; but Admiral Courbet, who was in charge, scented the born commander, and set him to fighting at the head of the troops. He was kept fighting next in Tahiti, and he was the first to enter Tumbeau—speaking never a word. He was silent in Madagascar, where he fought Diego Suarez mightily. Back in France, he was made a professor at the higher war school, and became successively general of the brigade of division and of a corps d'armee. He came to have the confidence of all as a strategist and organizer—and, with all the radical hostility to the army, he was never reproached with reaction or not being faithful to the republic. When the nomination of general-in-chief had to be made by the higher war council, Gen. Pau, who lost his arm at Sedan, pointed with his remaining hand to Joffre—and the nomination was unanimous.

The public knows little of persons; but it knew that the law of three years' compulsory service, which has saved France, was due largely to Gen. Joffre's foresight. And these three weeks of his command have made confidence in him universal. "Time will tell how far his silence will lead to victory; but, until now, no newspaper correspondent even knows where General-in-Chief Joffre and his headquarters were placed yesterday or today, or shall be tomorrow." Joffre's headquarters?" said a military man, who may have known and may not: "It's a monastery."

The popo who has just died would have liked that figure of speech, for he more than once expressed his opinion that even his monks talked too much. Perhaps this all but universal war will drift suffering humanity towards a new era where silence shall be appreciated as strength. And this time, let it be noted while it lasts, the silent man is the Frenchman. From Lausanne Correspondence of the New York Evening Post.

KILLED ON HONEYMOON

JOHN IZZO, 23, AND HIS BRIDE, 20, WERE FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL—ASPHYXIALED BY GAS

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—John Izzo, 23 years old, and his bride, aged 20, were found dead in a local hotel yesterday, having been asphyxiated by illuminating gas. They were married at Mechanicville Sunday night and were on their way to Boston to spend their honeymoon.

They arrived at the hotel shortly after midnight Sunday and yesterday afternoon a maid detecting the odor of gas traced it to the room of the young couple. Gas was flowing from a partly open jet in the chandelier. There was no evidence of suicide, the coroner stating that it was evidently an accident.

Both were residents of Mechanicville, Mr. Izzo being an employee of the Boston & Maine Railroad company.

PROGRESSIVES SEEK WRIT

Ask That Secretary of State Be Compelled to Accept Nomination in Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 14.—Leaders of one faction of the progressive party in Rhode Island petitioned the state supreme court yesterday for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept progressive nominations made at a convention Saturday.

The convention endorsed R. Livingston Boeckman for governor, and all the other republican nominees for general state offices except J. Emery San Souci for Lieutenant governor, for which place Walter G. Hartford, a progressive, was named. A previous progressive convention had nominated a straight party ticket.

Mr. Hartford tried to present a list of the nominations to the secretary of state, who, saying the progressive ticket already was on file, refused to receive Mr. Hartford's papers.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferment and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Poppy, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not grip or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Vocational School Has Increased Attendance Over Last Year

Last night marked the opening of the evening schools for the fall and winter seasons. An ordinary, not extraordinary attendance, was reported at all of the schools, the high, elementary and vocational schools. The registration will compare favorably with that of a year ago.

The actual attendance at the high school last night was 804. The registration for the opening night was 919. Principal Thomas G. Robbins thinks that the registration this year will not exceed that of four years ago, when the largest number in the history of the high school registered. The total registration this year will be over 1100. The civil service class promises to be popular and one of the most useful in the school.

There were 269 girls on hand for the opening of the vocational school on Common street, in the men's departments 81 appeared for the classes. The total registration of the school is about 500 girls and 150 men. The machine class last evening was crowded with men anxious to improve in practice work.

TO ADVANCE THAW CASE

MOTION MADE IN SUPREME COURT—CHANCE FOR "UNWRITTEN LAW" DECISION REMOVED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Motions were made in the supreme court yesterday to advance the extradition case of Harry K. Thaw and the Danbury Hatters' case, in which the Hatters' union was held liable for $25,000 damages under the Sherman antitrust law.

Failure of Carl Oliver of Texas to have the record in his case printed resulted yesterday in the dismissal by the supreme court of his appeal from a conviction of murder and removed the possibility of the court announcing its position on the "unwritten law."

Oliver shot a white man in company with his wife. His appeal to the supreme court claimed the trial judge should have charged the jury that a negro has the same right to defend the honor of his home as a white man.

THE ROMANCE CLUB

The "Romance Club" held its regular meeting last evening at the home of Miss Ethel Erickson, in Cadell avenue. Miss Margaret O'Donoghue was unanimously chosen president, while Miss Ida Brooks and Miss Mary Queenan were chosen secretary and treasurer respectively. An excellent musical program was carried out, including solos by Miss Anna Owens, Miss Lillian Dow and Miss Anna Curran, assisted by the other members. Supper was served and the party broke up at a seasonable hour, voting to hold the next meeting at the home of Miss Ida Brooks.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

Tomorrow the semi-weekly change of program at the Opera House occurs, and another of those farcical musical comedies which have met with such popular favor is to be presented by the Raymond Tore Music Company, entitled "The Little Christmas Girl." This farcical farce has been a riot when ever presented and it gives "Almire" Lee and the remainder of the cast parts in which they show to their best advantage. The young ladies in the chorus will be seen in all new specialties, while the gaudy purveyors of the good will of this performance will be up to the standard set by the management since their first appearance in this city, of "Nothing Cheap" but the Prices."

Tonight is the "Country Store," when many useful articles are to be given away, the persons holding the tickets will receive a small amount of money, the management wishes to state that nothing will be given but what is most useful to the one receiving same. The prices will remain the same, 10 cents for any seat at the matinees, and 15 and 20 cents at night. Seats may be reserved in advance by calling at the Gorham street box office or calling telephone 201.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Lollipop," with its wealth of bright lines and its unusual theme and situations, is one of the feature acts at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. Pretty Reginia Connell and her able supporting company, with Harriet Marlboro in a splendid role, give one of the best performances seen here for a long time.

The basis upon which the play was written is not only new but it is a theme which is readily understandable. The Five Sultys, with their musical fare called "The Information Bureau," have their vehicle speeded on well by the girls, the latest French piano-accordion, and play anything from an overture to a maxixe, and whatever he plays is bound to be liked.

He is one of the strongest features of the entire bill. Gilmore & Castle, black face dancers and comedians, offer a superior brand, and the puppets actually give something new. The Sham Sisters are pretty wire-walkers and sharpshooters, and Tissman & Tinsman are acrobats. The Heart-and-Soul News Pictorial concludes the bill. Good seats may be obtained in advance, Phone 25.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Perhaps never before has a local audience enthused over a performance of any stock company the way the one which attended the performance at the Merrimack Square theatre did last night, witnessing "Mrs. Wiggy of the Cabbage Patch." That is, to be sure rather a broad statement, but it's true nevertheless. And there is ample reason for the splendid way which they have received this equally splendid production. The costumes and decorations are all built on a clever foundation and from this arises laughs aplenty. Sam A. Neahary who is cast in the role made famous by William Hodge, gives a correct, artistic performance of the part, and the other performers in the cast, who appear to advantage are Eva Marsh, Gene Desmond, Kenneth Flemming, Marjorie Davis, Sadie Galloupe, Joseph Thayer,

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Probably the most sensational feature melodrama ever projected on a screen is the one coined by the promoters of "The Iron Man," which is to be the chief attraction at the Academy of Music today and tomorrow.

This wonderful masterpiece has been given the highest disregard for either money or personal merit.

It is a story of how a detective, single handed and alone, ran down and captured the slickest gang of crooks and conspirators in the history of romantic criminology.

Every effort is given to mechanical and electrical science, and aided by the grace of social outlaws, but the iron brain of the human bloodhound always found a way to circumvent them, and finally came out triumphant with three high born rascallions in handcuffs.

In one scene the detective walks into a trap cleverly set for him. He is bound and gagged and thrown into an subterranean passage. Here he liberates himself by short-circuiting a 4500 volt electric circuit and burning his bonds by means of the death dealing electrical torch.

This picture was secured by the management of the academy at considerable expense, but the prices of admission will not be raised. However, it will be impossible to exhibit this masterpiece after Thursday evening, as it goes direct from here to one of the largest theatres in Boston for a long run.

"Convict No. 1317," or "A Modern Rip Van Winkle," is the title of another remarkable feature to be included in the show. Here is a story that will reach home, as it is a tale that actually happened and will surely appeal to you on account of its human appeal. You will like it.

Then there are two Kippy Komedy pictures out one of the most perfect programs ever shown in any theatre, no matter what the price of admission charged.

"Love and Bullets" is a Keystone. No more need be said about that. "Bill Managers a Prize Fight" is from the famous Kopic studios and features everybody's favorite comedian, "Bill."

There are number of other classy numbers to make this show one that you will talk about for weeks after it is past.

Friday night, as usual, will be given over to the amateurs, with Bill Looney as master of ceremonies and Mrs. Dora Wigley officiating at the music box.

On Saturday afternoon free candy will be distributed to every boy and girl attending the matinee performance. There will also be a special program for the kiddies, including a number of war pictures taken in Europe.

THE OWL THEATRE

Villains galore, romance and weirdness are interwoven in a clever manner in Wednesday and Thursday's special attraction at the Owl theatre. It is a stupendous six-reel masterpiece of the kind that will thrill a nonpareil and most interesting stories of titled lords and men of the underworld, who fight for a title. As the play progresses scenes are shown with the devil prompting the unnatural son to make

MOTION PICTURE PHOTOGRAPHER TURNED CRANK WHILE BELGIAN SOLDIERS FOUGHT

FIGHTING IN ALOST, BELGIUM

COPYRIGHT 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

J. Frank Brockless, a motion picture photographer, was in the town of Alost, Belgium, when it was taken by the Germans. He made this picture of the fighting behind a street barricade. The film shows men falling after being slain by shrapnel. Finally the German gunners got the range, and shells fell so thickly that the photographer said he felt that he had to move to a place of safety if only to protect his film. It is doubtful if any motion picture photographer ever before stood by his camera under such dangerous conditions.

trouble for the rightful heir. This, however, does not spoil the play, in fact, it adds a new charm to the melodrama, and the result is highly satisfactory. The wife, half sick, writes a letter from her mother, stating the truth of the whole matter, but he finds means to make the letter appear in his favor, and the rightful one finds himself in a bad predicament. Finally after a long series of adventures, he is restored to his place, and the wrong man is punished. The love story running through the play is of special interest, and has a charm all its own. The management deserves to please, has booked an ideal performance for these two days, five other reels from the regular Mutual service having been added to the program. Among the best of the regular pictures are "Billy's Rival," a laughable product, a comedy drama of exceptional merit; "Jane, the Justice" is a play that will surely please by its intelligent technique, and good acting. "The Sham Sister" is a good two-part drama, that keeps you spellbound from the first to the last. "Hello, Maebell" is the Keystone offering for these days. No use talking about Keystone comedies, they all know them. A change of program Friday with Blanche Walsh in "Resurrection."

THE ROYAL THEATRE

The Royal has arranged one of the finest programs of the week for Wednesday and Thursday. First on the list of special attractions is "Shadows of the Moulin Rouge," a marvelous four-part drama of April in the Parisian underworld. Many stirring scenes are shown, and superb acting mark this production. Others on the program for these days are the 15th episode of "The Perils of Pauline," showing one of the most sensational auto races yet shown on screen. The Soul of Love, a new Vitagraph drama, due with Dorothy Kaye in the leading part. "The Greater Motive" is another good Vitagraph play. "Vengeful Vagabonds" is a two part photo-story, of more than passing excellence, while the comedy end of the program will be upheld by "The Fable of the Samaritan Who Had Paralysis of the Helping Hand," a George Ade fable.

THEATRE VOYONS

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the feature at the Voyons will be "The Blood Money," featuring America Cotto. Two crooks steal the precious jewel and fasten the theft on an innocent gentleman. The gem is discovered, and restored to its owner and their victim.

It will be far more satisfactory to see this picture at the Voyons Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BUY CLOTH RATHER THAN COTTON

A great many newspapers of influence are pointing out what they consider an inconsistency in the "Buy-a-bale-of-cotton" movement, and it must be confessed with good logic and rather convincing arguments. While approving of the spirit, they hold that a movement to buy cotton cloth would have had the same effect on the south while it would benefit other branches of the cotton business as well and confer a more practical benefit on those who would thereby mix philanthropy and shrewd business sense in good proportion. "It would be a much more effective movement," says the Manchester Union, "for every one in the United States to buy cotton cloth. There are few families in which an entire bale of cotton cloth could not be made good use of in one way and another, and if one-half the families in the United States should buy one-half as much, there would be a demand which would set every cotton mill at work overtime while its buying agents were hustling about to buy raw cotton, not by the bale but by the carload and shipload."

To help the cotton crop of the south is an excellent thing, but what of the other crops that have suffered owing to the war in Europe? Almost all agricultural products have been affected and of all so affected, perhaps the cotton crop has been most fortified by past profits. The cotton manufacturers have held that for years the price of cotton has been kept high artificially, and they cannot be blamed if they feel that the end desired would be achieved quite as well if the manufacturer were helped directly with an indirect benefit to the producer. It is certain that the possession of a large supply of cotton cloth does not entail the speculating features of the possession of a bale of cotton which is held for high prices.

Another consideration that hounds the buying of cloth rather than the bale is the fact that with the shortage of other textile products, there will be an unusually large demand for cotton in a few months with possibly a natural effect on prices. Not only will the foreign market for cotton cloth be increased but it will be bought more generally in our own country. Incidentally, the general buying of large quantities of cotton would benefit Lowell far more than high prices of raw cotton in the south. It is worth thinking over.

DANGER TO TRAFFIC

Sometimes without anybody in particular being at fault a combination of circumstances entails grave danger to the community or that part of it vitally interested. One cannot reasonably attribute the responsibility, perhaps, to any individual or group for the city on the Scheldt, feeling secure in the realization of its fine position, its difficulty of access, its triple chain of forts that were almost as remarkable and as famous as the defences of the great Gibraltar. German invention has proved that no fort as yet designed can withstand the shells of the terrible Krupp guns about which more than one expert waxed flippant. The engines of death may be unwieldy, inaccurate under certain circumstances and costly beyond belief, but when they are trained on a fort or a city, the city falls speedily or suffers total destruction. The war of the next few months will be in preventing the Germans turning their mighty guns on the forts of other cities. The modern aeroplanes and Zeppelins have also done a great deal to destroy the efficacy of trenches and fortified positions, trailing out the hidden secrets and giving treasured information to the gunners of their side. Military maneuvers will date another chapter from the fall of Liege, Antwerp and other captured fortresses.

It would seem that very late Saturday or early on Sunday a city epithet pasted over East Merrimack street and into High, leaving a very liberal supply of water en route. A few days before, Newsmith street and other streets in the neighborhood had received their third or fourth application of oil. Apparently a pretty thick coat of dust had settled over the entire moist section and over all the tailing leaves had spread a pretty but treacherous carpet. About 10 o'clock a thick slimy paste was spread over the steep hill from High street to the Immaculate Conception church—a paste made up of oil, water, dust and rotting leaves. Lest anybody should think this criticism supercilious, those who stayed for any length of time in the vicinity can testify to the many narrow escapes that resulted.

East Merrimack street is used a great deal by automobileists coming into the city, and many of those who drove from Belvidere on Sunday were totally unprepared for the condition of the hill. The day was clear and cool and there was nothing to indicate the danger spot. Accordingly our after-car drove down at a fair rate and skidded for a considerable distance. One skidded almost entirely across the street, at the base of the hill, ran onto the sidewalk and was stopped only by crashing into a pole. The occupants of the car luckily escaped injury but the car was towed to a nearby garage. Within five minutes a little car occupied by two young men had a similar escape. So common was the occurrence that the groups at the corners thereabouts watched every car coming into town to note the result. Had there been a serious accident—as there well might have been—the public would be loud in a criticism of the management that made such a condition possible.

FIRE DRILL RECORDS

In such an important matter as fire drill in schools it is not strange that nearby cities should have a friendly but spirited rivalry. Evidence of such a spirit were given recently by a boast in the Brockton Times which, noting a rather congratulatory account of a Salem fire drill in the Sun News, crowed a little loudly at alleged Brockton superiority. Following is an extract from the Brockton Times:

We take the following from the Sun News: "At a fire drill yesterday morning in the High school the 320 pupils who were in the building at the time passed out in perfect order in the very short time of two minutes and one seconds. Considering that none of the pupils knew that there was to be a fire drill until the signal of two bells was heard, the time was very short."

That would hardly do for Brockton. We have over 1500 pupils in our High school here, and they have been all over of the school building in one minute and twenty-five seconds on a fire drill. Last year the record was even sharper than that, but there are a few more pupils in the school now than there were in 1913. Last season's record was 77½ seconds. The Salem boys and girls did well, and where they can all get clear of a building in a little over two minutes there is not much danger of being caught by a fire; but Salem must speed up if it wants to be considered in the class with Brockton in this sort of competition.

This is a matter that undoubtedly will interest the management of our High school and, in fact, the entire Lowell public. How does Lowell's record compare with the other two?

TALK FIRE PREVENTION

Even at the risk of repetition, the Sun would again remind its readers to keep the need for constant caution with regard to fires in mind at this season of dry leaf drifts and inflammable waste and forest rubble. A very small blaze may at this season start a great conflagration and the long drought has prepared building and brush for the incendiary or negligently discarded match. The temptation to light fires is constantly before the kiddies who play in the piles of dry leaves and it is only by talking fire prevention in the home, the school and through the columns of the press that the public may be continually cautioned. Until the leaves are vanished and the dampness of winter set in all our people should practice and preach fire prevention and all relating to it. The need for it is well exemplified by the activity of the local fire department for the past few days.

A LOST CAUSE

If anything is needed to prove the feeling of impending failure that permeates the republican ranks, it is very evident in the frantic efforts now being made to discredit the national administration. For the past few weeks anything that carries the democratic stamp has been shouted down in the republican end of the house with a vehemence that bespeaks partisan activity with an eye to the country at large. The administration can stand it, and afford to be patient. I listened to some very pointed attacks on the tariff, the currency, the Mexican question, and it had the satisfaction of seeing all three measures publicly approved and vindicated by the American people. Such relatively unimportant things as the war tax cannot suffer overmuch because of a little misplaced fine storm. No amount of noise can drown out the chorus of popular approval.

SEEN AND HEARD

Happiness is contagious. But lots of us are immune.

About the only time a married man is right is when he admits that he is wrong.

Somehow or other the things that you get for nothing always manage to figure in the high cost of living.

You can always find hospitality in a hotel because you are expected to pay what it is worth.

A girl can make love to a man and make him imagine that he is doing all the love making.

Weather forecasters and doctors can rest full for guessing. But the rest of us have to be accurate.

After a man has been married for a while he imagines that when a woman's feet are not hurting her she is having a headache.

The lad who lets his wife take in washing so he can loaf is the same fellow who knows that the Robber Trusts are robbing this country.

A woman doesn't pay a bit of attention to what her husband says all day. But she is afraid to close her eyes at night if he talks in his sleep.

The sort of girl who is chummy with her mother usually manages to take care of herself without the assistance of a chaperone.

If you will say nothing, be nothing and do nothing, you can always be speedily certain that you won't have any enemies.

A fellow with an automobile and an extra ticket for the world's series inviting you to be his guest for the afternoon is listed with the things that never happen.

A woman always judges a new neighbor by the way the furniture looks in the moving van. But a man remembers how his furniture looked last time he moved.

Let us be fair. If a man didn't hog all his change for his personal comforts, and went 50-50 with his wife, the joke about her fishing his pockets at night would soon die for want of nourishment.

When two men are extremely polite to each other it is a sign that they don't like each other. But when they say: "Hello, you ornery old pup!" and it pays to wear a smiling face. And laugh out trouble down.

For all our little trials wait.

Beneath the muzzle of a smile.

Our doubts will fade away.

As melts the frost in early spring.

Beneath the sunny ray.

It pays to make a worthy cause.

By helping it, our own.

To give the current of our lives.

A true and noble tone.

It pays to comfort heavy hearts.

Oppressed with dull despair.

And leave in sorrow-darkened lives.

A gleam of brightness there.

It pays to give a helping hand.

To easier, earnest youth.

To tone with all their waywardness.

Their courage and their truth;

To strive with sympathy and love.

Their confidence to win.

It pays to open wide the heart.

THIN PRINCE OF CANDOR

Senator La Follette apropo of certain frank confessions in high finance, said to a reporter:

"Candid, at any rate, isn't it? In fact, it's all so very candid that it reminds me of Uncle Wash."

"Uncle Wash had been a servant in the Carroll family for many years, and when young Charles Carroll ran for congress he naturally expected the old man to support him. Charles was a good deal disappointed, therefore, when the day after his defeat he heard that Wash had voted against him.

"He sent for the old man.

"Uncle Wash," he said, "is it true that you voted against me yesterday?"

"Yes, Mars' Charles, I done voted to republican ticket," Uncle Wash admitted.

"Well," said the defeated candidate, "I like frankness, anyhow; so here's a dollar for your candor."

"Uncle Wash polished the dollar.

Then he scratched his head, chuckled, and said:

"Mars' Charles, if you's buying candor you owes me 50 dollars mo', kase I voted agin ye five times." —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ENGLISH VIEW OF LINCOLN

The world is still waiting for the true life of one who was probably the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race in the last century. The time is coming near when we can judge him fairly. The part he played in the crisis of his country was so immense that the early lives were not naturally of the "spread-eagle" type. Then, as time passed, and the literary genius of his countrymen fell in love with subtleties, there seemed less inclination to consider a mind and character which was essentially broad and simple. Now that the echoes of controversies are dying away, and at the same time nationalism is reviving in American letters, we may hope that the right biography will arise. He must tell the tale as a drama for Lincoln's career has the splendor of some great movement of nature. Like Cromwell, he does not make it; it is made for him, and he only accepts the guidance of Providence. Backwoods boy, ruffian, soldier, statesman, president—the stages come naturally, that one forgets the human effort. The gods seem to be preparing the one man for the appointed hour. The greatness of Lincoln as president lies in his clear perception of one essential truth—that in the interests of humanity the Union must be maintained. Amid a throng of distracting side questions, he never lost sight of the main issue. It takes a very real intellectual greatness to stake everything upon an abstract truth. The tenacious heart of men had to wage a bloody and relentless war. The least dogmatic of statesmen had to hold fast to one doctrine, and shut his eyes to difficulties. Above all, he did not "look too good, nor talk too wise." The author of the most exalted speeches in English oratory since Burke transacted the ordinary business of life in language of a homely simplicity. His humor at once endeared him to his people and allowed him to "keep the common touch" in the terrible mysteries of black policy and war. It refreshed him to put a difficulty into homely idioms and illustrate it with a country tale.—The London Spectator.

THE LOWELL SUN

"How's yourself, you porch-climbing old horse thief!" they are good friends.

No wonder men are soft. When a man gets sick he wants his wife to be on the go and walk on him four times a minute. But when a woman gets sick she wants the doors closed and the shades pulled down and begs to be left alone.

CITIES NAMED AFTER HIM

Chas. W. Smith, the manager of the Chicago branch of the Sinclair & Valentine Co., told at luncheon in the dinner of the Chicago-Denver special train to the conventions of a member's speech of introduction of a Mr. Potts at a political meeting in town in Eastern Pennsylvania. He prefaced his remarks by saying:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, we have with us this evening a very distinguished gentleman, so much so that the great state of Pennsylvania has named three of its cities after him. They are Pittsville, Pottsville and Cambria."

NOT A TRUE INDICATOR

Smith, who lived in the west, left his home town early in his youth. Returning after several years, he was met by an elderly acquaintance whom he had not seen in the intervening time.

"Glad to see you, my boy," greeted the elderly one, "but you look as if you had not stuck to grape juice and soda water as closely as you should."

"You mustn't judge by appearances," smiled Smith. "I have never taken more than two or three glasses a day in all my life."

"Um, I see," responded the other.

"Probably your taste is like some gas meters; it registers more than you consume."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

THE "TELLTALES"

Railroad men are inspecting railroad "tunnels" on the roads of the state.

Recently the Massachusetts public service commission issued a set of regulations to apply to every railroad in the Commonwealth. "Bridge guards" are better known in some sections of the state as "telltales" and are placed 100 feet or more from an overhead bridge to warn tramps, who are riding on the top of the cars, that they are approaching such a bridge. The laws of the state require every markets, with little regard for "abroad," except as a receptacle for its surplus of raw materials and food products which "abroad" was quite ready to send for, the Journal of Commerce says in discussing prospects for the cotton trade. How far this attitude has changed as the result of industrial and material progress is strikingly illustrated by the calculations now made for the future as a consequence of the sudden interruption of our traffic with foreign nations. No interest of our people is more severely hit for the time being than that of the producers of cotton. On the average of years something like three-fourths of the raw cotton of the world has been raised in the United States and of this more than two-thirds has been exported to other countries, making it the most important article in our foreign trade. For the 12 months ending with last June, 9,165,300 bales were sold abroad and of the recorded value was $510,475,301. Of this 3,451,376 bales, valued at $231,817,860, went to Great Britain, 2,755,220, valued at $181,891,220 to Germany and 1,091,137, valued at $73,918,742 to France.

OUTLOOK FOR COTTON

AND THE PROSPECT OF MAINTAINING OUR FOREIGN MARKET IN FACE OF DIFFICULTIES

For a long time the country was devoted to a policy of nursing home industries and building up domestic markets, with little regard for "abroad," except as a receptacle for its surplus of raw materials and food products which "abroad" was quite ready to send for, the Journal of Commerce says in discussing prospects for the cotton trade. How far this attitude has changed as the result of industrial and material progress is strikingly illustrated by the calculations now made for the future as a consequence of the sudden interruption of our traffic with foreign nations. No interest of our people is more severely hit for the time being than that of the producers of cotton. On the average of years something like three-fourths of the raw cotton of the world has been raised in the United States and of this more than two-thirds has been exported to other countries, making it the most important article in our foreign trade. For the 12 months ending with last June, 9,165,300 bales were sold abroad and of the recorded value was $510,475,301. Of this 3,451,376 bales, valued at $231,817,860, went to Great Britain, 2,755,220, valued at $181,891,220 to Germany and 1,091,137, valued at $73,918,742 to France.

Our Trade Abroad

The United States with its great advantage in the production of the raw material has had an insignificant part of the trade in finished goods and has been an importer of not a little of the finer grades. The total value of our exports of manufactured cotton goods in the last fiscal year was $28,849,627, of which over $6,000,000 went to China, $5,000,000 to the Philippines and nearly $2,000,000 to our neighbors in Canada and $1,500,000 to those in Mexico. This accounts for more than half of the whole. The bulk of the rest went to South America and the distant east. At the same time we imported such goods to the value of more than $70,000,000.

The question now agitated is what can be done in the present emergency to bring about a change that may have permanent effect upon our manufacturing industry and our foreign trade in the use of the material for which we have such an exceptional advantage. Taking Great Britain as the chief factor in competition and the one of the three mentioned above which is least crippled by the war, we find a heavy falling off in the present production, not only on account of the curtailment of material received and in prospect and the virtual closing of the markets for the goods, but as a result of the mobilization of troops and the call for volunteers for the army.

America's Opportunity

Here would seem to be a great opportunity for the United States. How far are we in a position to take advantage of it? We have the material in super-abundance, and are seriously concerned at present for finding a market for it and avoiding disastrous fall in the price while it is being held to await the revival of something like a normal demand. The markets for the goods which are accessible to us in spite of the war, and which are deprived of the supplies which are wont to receive from Europe, are ready to take all we can furnish. This would seem to afford a stimulus to the utmost activity of our mills to their full capacity, and an increase of their capacity so far as that is practicable.

Difficulties in Way

The two chief difficulties in the way now are lack of banking and exchange facilities with the neutral nations, and lack of adaptation of the goods and of trading methods to the markets to be reached. This applies especially to Latin-American countries where the largest opportunity lies for establishing new relations and cultivating a future development. These are matters which cannot be rectified overnight. It will take time to work out the problem and it should be done with ability and care and with an eye to permanent results, for the competition of nations which have already built up a trade where we are now seeking it is sure to revive, though with impaired energy and resources when the war is over.

In availing of the opportunity presented by an unusual and unforeseen emergency, therefore, every effort should be made to lay a new foundation upon which our trade may endure. There is need of banking facilities which shall be permanent and of all there must be the establishment of trade relations and methods of payment and credit acceptable to those with whom we are seeking trade.

STORE OPEN SATURDAY, 10 P. M.

Come up out of the darkness, friend—we will help you. Get married just as soon as you like and worry no more about the cost of furnishing a home for your wife and baby. Our dignified credit plan permits you to live like a prosperous man, save a little and get a comfortable home. The fancied belief that it is absolutely necessary to have accumulated sufficient capital to pay cash outright for your furniture to be all that you had planned on its value, causes many young people to put off indefinitely their marriage. That this belief is entirely unfounded is proven hourly when you see the high character of the furniture shown on our sales floors, see how reasonable the goods are marked and then realize that you can buy your own home on the credit plan. The great gulf that separates the character home from the comfortable one is lack of ready money, and we bridge over this gulf. Do not think for a minute that in accepting credit, you are under any obligation. We frankly tell you that we prefer your taking advantage of our extension of credit, for in our cash transaction, our relations are over when the goods are delivered; but under our dignified credit system you visit our store on our monthly pay day.

You see new merchandise displayed continuously in our store and, if the first furniture bought from us is all that you expected, then ten chances to one you will continue to trade with us year after year.

Our dignified credit system is in your protection, as well as convenience, for looking at things in a cold business way, we could not afford to have you dissatisfied and the goods not paid for.

ROANE ONE OF THE VETERANS

LEAGUES ACTIVE

Is a Hard Tackler in Spite of His Lack in Weight

Has Been Played at Both End and Quarter-Back This Season

The local high school eleven, although it has met with two bad reverses out of the schedule's first three games, holds promise of being a first class aggregation when the end of the gridiron season rolls around. By the time that the big games with Lawrence high and Textile are played Lowell high will be traveling at a formidable pace.

The squad at the high school this year is one of the best which ever turned out for any coaching staff. Their greenness and inexperience, however, will take several weeks' time to overcome but when the team does round into shape it will spring a surprise upon many of the larger schools.

One of the most valuable players left from last year's aggregation is "Roundy" Roane, end, quarter-back or "any position behind the line." Roane, although very light, played a whirlwind game for the high school last season and has started off in the same manner this fall.

Roane is one of the hardest tacklers that the school has had in years. He is into every play and is particularly good at open field work. Past on his feet "Roundy" is able to shift through an end play in due style and seldom is he boxed by the interference given the runner. He has been played at both end and quarter-back this season.

"ROUNDY" ROANE

Several Bowling Organizations Busy Last Night

Several bowling leagues were in session last night with matched games scheduled. In one or two instances last night's scores were above the average.

Two games were rolled off in the Lamson league, the Perfections going down before the well directed volleys of the Sweepstakes and the Reserve No. 9 bowlers putting it on to the Lamson Rapiids.

In the first mentioned game the winners put the team total of 1408, the best record for the league thus far and a better score than any league team has thus far put up at Kiltredge's alleys this season. Wilson was high man with 324. The Reserve No. 9 team also rolled well, Freyer getting a three string total of 216.

The Mercantile league started off their schedule last night. Tucks and Parker's Owls were not fast enough to withstand the onslaught of the D. L. Page rollers and lost the match by nearly a hundred pins. In the other game Macartney's bowlers were smothered by the C. B. Coburn quintet. Duryley of the latter team took high honors in this league.

The Y. M. C. A. league also opened last night with a match between the Monhegans and the Samosets. The Samosets came through in the first two strings and managed to pile up a lead which the Monhegans could not overcome in the final ten boxes. Dooley was high man.

The Blacksmith Shop and the Locomotive Shop, two teams from the Rumford car shops, rolled an interesting game in which the Locomotive Shop defeated their brethren by the score of 1368-1306. Gorman of the winners with 318 was high man. The scores:

RUDOLPH PITCHED FINAL GAME AND WON, 3 TO 1

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Oct. 13.—The Boston Braves are the world's baseball champions of 1914. They defeated the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon by a score of 3 to 1, winning the series with four straight games; the champions of the American League not capturing a contest.

Little Dick Rudolph pitched masterful game, winning his second contest of the series today. The Philadelphians could not touch his elusive slow ball when hits would have sent runs over the plate. The Bostons outgamed and outplayed their opponents today in every department of the sport. They clinched their victory in the fifth inning after two men were out with Rudolph's single. Moran's double and Evers' solid blow to center.

It is the first time that a world's series has been won in four straight games and after the last man was out the Athletics rushed over and congratulated their conquerors. The spectators went wild with joy and paraded the field, singing and cheering.

Umpire Byron took his place behind the plate; Hildebrand on the bases; Klem in left field; Dineen in right field.

First Inning

Murphy was out, Evers to Smith. Oldring sent up a high foul to Gowdy and sat down. The Athletics were evidently not waiting for the ball pitched, as the Boston pitcher was sticking them over. Collins singled, over the middle station. Rudolph held Collins close to the bag to prevent a steal. Baker out on a fly to Whitted. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Baker threw out Moran. Evers was given a good hand when he came to the plate. He went out. Baker to McInnis, who made a pretty pick-up of Baker's low throw. Connolly fled out to Oldring. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning

Deal threw out McInnis, making a nice one-hand stop of McInnis' slow roller. Walsh doubled to the left field fence. Connolly misjudged the ball. Maranville threw out Barry at first. Walsh holding second. Schang fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Whitted lined out to Oldring. It was a wickedly hit ball, but Oldring was in the way. Shawkey threw out Schmidt. Gowdy walked. Barry took Maranville's grounder and tossed to Collins, forcing Gowdy. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning

Shawkey struck out on three pitched balls. Deal threw out Murphy. Deal took the ball near the bag and had to make a snap throw to get the runner. Oldring singled to center. It was Oldring's first hit of the series. Oldring was out stealing. Gowdy to Maranville. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Deal fled out to Oldring. Rudolph was out, Barry to McInnis. Barry also took care of Moran, throwing him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning

Evers threw out Collins at first. Umpire Byron cautioned the Boston players for coaching on the bench. Baker singled through Schmidt. The ball took a wide bound and struck Schmidt in the body. Play was stopped for a minute until the Boston first baseman could get his wind back. McInnis shot a single to left. Baker going to third. McInnis was out trying to stretch his hit. Connolly, Deal to Evers. Walsh fanned. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Evers walked. Connolly was out. Collins to McInnis; Evers going to second. A double play was in sight but Collins momentarily jugged the ball. Whitted got an infield hit, which bounded off Collins' leg. He was hurt and play was stopped. Evers took third on the play. With only one out, the Athletics' infield played back for a double play. Evers scored on Schmidt's slow roller to Barry, who threw the runner out at first. Whitted took second on Schmidt's grounder. Shawkey threw out Gowdy. One run; one hit; no errors.

Evers walked. Connolly was out. Collins to McInnis; Evers going to second. A double play was in sight but Collins momentarily jugged the ball. were the school committeemen will see the superintendent of the public schools, Hugh J. Molloy, who will find room for all the little ones.

Peter Tavoularis, president of the Greek community, informed the Sun this afternoon that he expects a check for $100 tomorrow or Wednesday from the headquarters of the Pan-Hellenic union in New York. The director of the society at a recent meeting voted to help their brethren in this city by voting the sum of $2000 for the school fund. As soon as the money is received more work will be done on the old Plunkett residence.

TOWN OF DRACUT SEED

Albert Smithson Seeks Damages for Accident When Pole Fell in His Path

Albert Smithson of Lawrence has brought suit against the inhabitants of the town of Dracut, in an action for $1000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he ran into a pole which had fallen across the Lawrence and Dracut. It is claimed that the pole was not protected by lights or danger signals.

Another local matter to be tried in the Essex county court is an action of tort in which John Igo of Lawrence sued Gertrude E. Whiteley of Lowell for $5000 for personal injuries from being struck by the defendant's auto in Common street, Lawrence, July 4, 1914. Miss Whiteley was driving through Lawrence when her car crashed into a post and struck Igo who was standing on the sidewalk.

FRONTENAC ATTENDED PARADE

The members of Garde Frontenac of this city have returned from Marlboro, where yesterday they participated in the Columbus day celebration and the military tournament held in the afternoon.

In the forenoon a big parade was held under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus of Marlboro and Garde Frontenac made a fine showing. In the afternoon a military contest was held under the auspices of Garde d'Honneur, St. Jean Baptiste of Marlboro and the Lowell guard hooked the 3d prize. The prize went to Garde d'Honneur of Worcester and the second to Garde Sacre-Coeur of Fall River. The prizes consisted of silver trophies and Garde Frontenac had added another one to its already long list.

"Please tell me whether I should it is necessary to pass them. It is also necessary to beg the pardon of the people who are thus disturbed," asked Grace.

"It does not make a great deal of difference whether you lead the way into the living room or request your guest to go ahead of you. When there are servants the maid or butler leads the way and stands while the guests enter the room," answered her aunt.

"Will you kindly tell me what is the proper thing to do when a man is called away from a dance before it is half over and he has engaged several numbers," asked John.

"He should go to every girl with whom he had engaged a dance and make proper explanations and apologies," answered his sister.

"I have just received a letter from a girl friend saying she is to be married late in the fall. Will you please tell me if I should write and wish her happiness or should I wait until after the wedding to do this," asked Helen.

"Now is the time to write to your friend and extend your best wishes. Let your note be informal, personal and sincere," answered her mother.

"What should friends of a girl do when they notice her engagement in the newspaper?" inquired May.

"They may send her flowers or some dainty bethrothal gift or note of best wishes may be sent to her," answered her aunt.

GERMAN ARMY MET WITH HEAVY DEFEAT

German Plan to Hold Pas De Calais and Deliver Crushing Blow to Allies' Left Wing Has Failed, Says London

LONDON, Oct. 14.—In a despatch again yesterday, I hear and once more stated Monday the daily Mail's correspondent in northern France says:

"The great German plan to hold the advanced last week from the north-east and north. Our forces which are said to be heavy. Our force which has had to turn tail and as long ago as last Wednesday its columns were bearing a heavy retreat back whence they came to join their supporters at Ypres.

The German army which extended from Tournai to Armentières and was forced from its position last Tuesday has again met with heavy defeat and been beaten back northward.

The battle which has been raging at intervals near Arras blazed out

THE MAN IN THE MOON

That our Fish and Game association is wide awake in the interests of fishermen and hunters is shown in their action by endorsing a bill map for the position of fish and game commissioner in the person of Willis S. Holt. It is high time the county was represented on the state board and the present time is ripe for action since an incumbent's term expires in December.

It is felt that with Mr. Holt as a commissioner conditions would greatly improve. We could hope for some effective regulations in force relative to fishing in our streams and ponds, and something done to keep the fishways open on the Merrimack from the lake to the sea. Just at present the local Locks and Canals people and the Amoskeag folks in New Hampshire seem to be bigger than the people of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, while fish hogs and divers violators of the fish laws work their own sweet will. Speaking of fishing, I heard something the other day interesting to trouters. A young man of this city recently married and went on his honeymoon to Ellington, the little New Hampshire town which lies between Concord and the Atlantic and is about 80 miles from Lowell, as the crow flies. He declared that the brooks in that town were literally alive with trout and he saw none less than 12 inch long. Although the law was on he fished and fished to his heart's content and managed to enjoy his honeymoon immensely in consequence.

Now here's a hint to lovers of trout fishing—but it doesn't necessarily they be newly-weds. Take next season, a train over the Rochester road and get off at Center Ossipee and strike Ellington where it isn't crowded, for its population is something like 100. You will doubtless find the bridegroom tells the truth, for all bridegrooms are models of truth and sobriety until the honeymoon wanes.

And speaking of fishing, Henry Williams, the attendant officer and efficient accountant of the department of school supplies, described to me just how he landed six and a half bass from the waters of Candie one morning of last August. During the good old summer time Henry has had a camp on the shores of Candie for 10, these many seasons. What he doesn't know about Candie I don't know, particularly as to the tiny inhabitants of that beautiful sheet of water. This morning that Henry made his great catch he got up before breakfast, and putting together his 40-dollar rod which is equipped with the very latest wrinkles as to reel line and fly, he hopped into his dory and so was at the right spot. Now Henry has fine descriptive powers and could I faithfully reproduce his thrilling account of his morning's exploit, I know it would make every member of the Fish and Game association jump in sympathetic joy. As I can't do it, let it suffice to say, that when after a few casts—and right here let it be known that Henry is as fine a caster as ever lost a fish—something struck his line that was big with promise. Then began those interesting and exciting moments in the life of every bass fisherman who knows he has something on the end of his line worth while. It was thus with Henry, who after playing the fish with considerable skill for 10 or 15 minutes at last had the delight of landing his prize in the bottom of his boat. Really, if I could tell the story as Henry told it in real classic words it would add to the literature of the gentle art of angling.

Now, I did not see this fish and of course did not see it weighed—not have I met with anybody—outside of Henry—who did. However, I cannot doubt for a minute or two the facts as set forth by Henry, for during the many years I have known him his reputation for truth and veracity is only surpassed by his skill in figures and if he says six and half, why six and a half it must be.

Danger From Amateur Hunters

With the fishing season near its close the time is at hand when our local minnows armed with breech-loading shot guns and their license will issue forth to bag a few specimens of certain feathered creatures the law permits them to gather and divers other animals of the woods which never did them any harm. For a short time the pheasants which are reported to be plentiful in certain sections but a few miles from Lowell will become targets for gunners of more or less skill—fortunately for the birds mostly less. It's a very good thing for all hunted creatures that so many of the hunters know so little about hunting and that they are such wretched shots. In this connection it is well to warn all who like to frequent the woods at this season of the year—hunters included—to be cautious, for there is considerable danger of being peppered by the contents of the gun of some heedless sportsman who blazes away utterly regardless of anybody's safety. In the papers we often read of the killing of hunters by their fellow sportsmen and while the list is alarmingly long, we don't usually hear of the much longer lists of close calls that happen in the woods. I recall one experience in the woods of Tewksbury several years ago when it appeared that for a few exciting moments I was certainly being hunted with a vengeance, so much so that I threw myself flat upon the ground. I felt that I wasn't entirely safe even there. I escaped to tell the tale, feeling, I fancy, like a soldier who for the first time has been "under fire"—rather scared, but thankful to be still alive, since that occasion I've been careful during the hunting season to keep in the open for I have no desire to die at the hands of a punk imitation hunter.

Bowling Season

When the bowling season gets started it takes more than a series of warm evenings to check it. For a few weeks now all the local alleys have been busy with bowlers getting in trim for the tournaments which begin very soon. I have been looking over several candidates for future bowling honors and noticed not a few promising ones. In one particular and that a very important one—I noted one almost unanimous opinion on the part of bowlers, most young ones to disregard the foul line. There are notices displayed in few of the alleys calling attention to illegal delivery of the ball but evidently many of the bowlers can't read, or if they can, don't. I would like to suggest to the alley managers that they hang a big-lettered sign across each alley with the legend: "Keep back the foul line!" It might get a few converts and be the making of real bowlers.

The Triumphant Braves

These strong advocates of the superiority of the American league players over the Nationalists must have received some sad jolts as they held the Braves put it over four straight on the Athletics and those confident gentlemen who declared that the four leading teams of the American league could easily defeat the Braves must have their confidence somewhat shaken. The gentleman who held up his finger and exhorted me to watch Oldring team up against Bill James' delivery I haven't seen since Saturday's game; but when I see him I'll tell him what Rube Oldring did to Bill James. You recall it? Four times up, two strike outs, two weak blows to the infield.

It is certainly some stunts the Braves pulled off and they have made so many new friends since they began to climb as to make the number hard to count. The old guard is tickled to death to see the triumph of the Braves.

The October Scenery

Those who feared that the long season of dryness would spoil and render uninteresting the October scenery of hill and valley, have been agreeably disappointed. Just now it is in the height of its attractiveness, possibly not so brilliant as some years have witnessed but hardly less beautiful than that account. There is enough brilliancy for contrast but the general effect is that of subdued coloring and perfect harmony. We may well pay homage to the month that creates such a wealth of loveliness and scatters it with so lavish a hand. Should we attempt to sing October's praises it is just as well to remember that the best songs in its praise are not those of high-sounding lines and metered rhymes. There's everything to be said in praise of October if we could say it, of its sky, its days of its harvest and of its beauty and charm that ever makes it the loveliest of months.

CARDINAL GASPARRI

Succeeds Late Cardinal Ferrata as Secretary of State—Author of Canon Law

ROME, via Favia, Oct. 14.—Cardinal Pietro Gasparri has been selected by Pope Benedict to fill the position of secretary of state, made vacant by the death of Cardinal Ferrata.

Cardinal Gasparri was born just outside of Rome in 1882, and was proclaimed a cardinal in 1907. He enjoys high reputation among the canonists of the church, and is the author of the new code of canon law, to which he devoted much thought and labor.

At one time he was secretary of state for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, an office which is a subdivision of the papal secretaryship.

INDICT FIVE AS AUTO BANDITS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 14.—Indictments against Romeo Rosati, Thomas and James Di Palma, Michele Rossi and Luigi Bianchetti, alleged automobile bandits, were returned yesterday. Each is charged, on two counts, with assault with intent to kill.

The five are alleged to be the robbers who, in a high powered motor car, held up a mill office at Centredale several months ago. The mill man and a policeman were shot in connection with the hold-up.

Carmillo Piacentino was indicted on the charge of murdering Antonetta di Cecco, a relative, June 1. He pleaded not guilty.

GOV. WALSH SUSPENDS THE HUNTING SEASON

Local Hunters Meet With Big Disappointment—Danger of Forest Fires Responsible for Governor's Action

law, he shall be subject to a fine of not more than $100.

The Governor's Proclamation

"In view of the extreme drought now existing and the fact that forest fires reported at the forest lookouts suddenly increased at least 500 per cent on Oct. 12, the first day of the open season on upland game, in spite of the extraordinary precautions taken by the governor and by the executives of the forestry and of the fish and game departments, it must be obvious to every public spirited citizen that the damage arising from even the small percentage of fires started by hunters may be very considerable, not alone in direct and actual monetary losses, but indirectly, in the far-reaching and disastrous results through the destruction of birds and by deterrent effect upon labor and capital which is now being put into the development of the forest, woodland and orchard properties by individuals and by the state.

"Therefore consider that the public may be best served by suspending the present open season on upland game, until a general and drenching rain has quenched the present numerous fires within the commonwealth."

"At the suggestion and with the advice of the state forester and of the fish and game commissioners, I hereby proclaim, as provided in chapter 422, acts of 1909, that the open season on upland game is suspended in this commonwealth until further notice."

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Arrived steamer, Finland, from Liverpool.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

IT MAY COST A LITTLE MORE

But when painted right you get the difference of the cost in the went. Have your painting done by the shop with a reputation for good work.

PARTED IN CHILDHOOD BROTHER MET SISTER

Happy Reunion of F. Ouimette Patenaude With His Sister in This City—Had Been Adopted by a Family and Assumed Another Name

Francis Ouimette Patenaude, 22 years old, formerly of Lowell and now of Rossland, British Columbia, who is visiting relatives in this city, is a happy man and he has reason to feel that way, for last night he met a sister he had not seen for 20 years and only a few days ago he was entertained by another sister in Pittsburgh, who is making her home in Pittsburgh and a few days ago he visited her and through her he learned two of his sisters had passed away a few years ago and the other was living in this city.

After considerable work Mr. Patenaude found his sister, Marie Rose Delina, at a Suffolk court, where she is making her home with her foster parents Mr. and Mrs. John Ouimette who although bearing the same name are not related to the girl. The young woman is employed in a local mill and when she returned to her home last night a surprise awaited her for she was introduced to a brother she did not remember ever seeing. The reunion of the brother and sister was a most pleasant one, for the young girl learned from this meeting the whereabouts of her other sister and brother. It is possible that Marie Rose Delina Ouimette will journey to Rossland, B. C., with her brother. The young man will leave Lowell Monday for Coalton, where he will remain a few days, going thence to his home in the Canadian northwest.

Francis was adopted by his godfather, Xiste Patenaude of this city and he was then given the name of his foster parents. Twelve years ago the family removed to Coalton, Que., whence they went to Rossland eight years ago. The boy knew he had a brother and four sisters, but did not know their whereabouts and did not even know if they were alive.

Three months ago the young man came to the United States for the Canadian northwest.

LATE WAR BULLETINS

1,500,000 GERMANS ON EASTERN FRONTIER

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Times despatch from Petrograd says: On a conservative estimate the German forces known to be on the eastern frontier number about a million and a half effective men, not counting the Austrian troops, of whom there are about 270,000 on the Sicilian front.

GERMANS PREPARE TO LAY SIEGE ON BELFORT

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Central News despatch from Copenhagen says: According to a Berlin despatch received here the Germans are preparing to lay siege on Belfort with as large a force as possible. Almost the entire civil population has left the city.

Belfort is a fortress in France just across the Alsation border just across from Muelhausen. In the Franco Prussian war it withstood a siege for more than three months. The town has a population of about 26,000.

GERMAN CRUISER GOEBEN IN TURKISH FLEET

ROME, Oct. 14.—A report received here from Constantinople says that the commander of the former German cruiser Goeben will become the head of the Turkish fleet and aims to attack the Russian fleet for mastery in the Black sea and to threaten the Russian coast. The Goeben now flies the Turkish flag and all her officers and crew are said to be Germans.

FORMER GERMAN CRUISERS FLY TURKISH FLAG

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Despatches received here from Sofia, Bulgaria, and other points report the appearance of the former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which fly the Turkish flag in the Black sea.

OPPOSED SINGLE TERM

PRES. WILSON SAID TO HAVE WRITTEN LETTER OPPOSING THAT PLANK OF BALTIMORE PLATFORM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Officials close to the White House yesterday admitted the truth of reports that President Wilson had opposed the single term plank of the Baltimore platform in a letter written to Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, last year, when the subject was being considered by the house judiciary committee. It was said, however, that the letter would not be made public.

The president has never publicly discussed the one-term question, but has been understood by his friends to be levo that there should be no constitutional restrictions limiting presidents to one term.

PARIS REPORTS ADVANCE

London Hopes to Celebrate Anniversary of the Battle of Jena With Victory Along Both Fronts Today—Turkish Fleet, Composed of German Cruisers, Sighted in Black Sea—Germans Advance Near Ostend—Belgian Government Goes to Havre—Lille Retaken by Germans

LONDON, Oct. 14.—There is hope in London today that the anniversary of the battle of Jena in which the French gained a victory over the Prussians and Saxons may be celebrated along both battle fronts by events recalling this great and decisive struggle, but whatever the outcome, observers are being permitted to receive only the briefest reports of what is now transpiring in Belgium, France and Russia.

The latest French official communication declares there is nothing to report except notable advance in the case of Italy, where discussion has been checked while the country awaits news from the sick bed of its foreign minister.

The ferment over the question of neutrality of the countries of southeastern Europe is increasing everywhere. An exception is found in the case of Italy, where discussion has been checked while the country awaits news from the sick bed of its foreign minister.

Vienna reports that the Austrian offensive continues successfully north and south of Przemysl and that Jawoslaw, an important fortress taken by Austria several weeks ago, has been recaptured by the Austrians.

German Right Repulsed.

News of military operations is very meagre. Stubborn fighting is reported at (name deleted by censor), and it is claimed that all the efforts of General Von Kluck to smash the allies

In the Battle the German fleet is showing unusual activity. In addition to submarines or a torpedo boat which recently sunk a Russian cruiser at a point distant two days' steaming from their base a great German squadron flying the flag of Prince Henry of Prussia is today reported cruising about the Aaland Islands, according to a Berlin announcement.

TOKIO, Oct. 14.—It is reported that the German commander at Tsing Tau has agreed to the Japanese proposals as put forward by the emperor of Japan for the preservation of the lives of non-combatants in the German fortress and it is expected that these neutrals will leave Tsing Tau shortly by way of the Shantung railroad.

MEMBERS OF BELGIAN GOVERNMENT GREETED AT HAVRE, FRANCE

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The members of the Belgian government arrived in Havre Tuesday evening and were received by the minister of marine and the local authorities, says a despatch today. Military honors were rendered the Belgians and the populace gave them an enthusiastic reception.

TOKIO, Oct. 14.—It was officially declared today that the American consul at Tsing Tau, W. R. Peck, and a number of German and Chinese women and children are to leave there tomorrow. This move is in fulfillment of the arrangement recently concluded for the removal of all remaining non-combatants from the German position in Kiao Chow.

LEFT WING OF ALLIES TO BE THE SCENE OF SHARP FIGHTING

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Chronicle's correspondent at the seat of war telegraphs today as follows:

The left wing of the allies where the French and British forces have taken the offensive at certain points against the Germans is expected to be the scene of sharp fighting.

The occupation of Lille by the Germans, it is believed by the French, will be only of short duration. The actions in this vicinity previously had been principally engagements between the cavalry of the contending forces but the French official communiqué now speaks of "our forces" in general and not as previously "our cavalry" in referring to the troops around Lille, indicating that in addition to the squad-

LOSSES SUFFERED BY STATE BANK FAILURE

Whether Depositors May Resort to Courts to Compel Officials to Reimburse Them Depends on the Outcome of Arguments Today Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Whether depositors in state banks may resort to the courts to compel state officials in charge of the depositors' guaranty funds to reimburse them for losses suffered by a state bank failure depends upon the outcome of arguments today before the supreme court.

The specific case presented to the court arose out of the failure of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Sapulpa, Okla. The state banking board reimbursed the city of Sapulpa for losses sustained by it, but refused to reimburse certain corporation depositors and holders of deposit certificates. The decision probably will affect the rights of depositors in every state having a guaranty law for bank deposits.

Attorney General West appeared for the state of Oklahoma and Charles A. Commins of Kansas City, Mo., headed a corps of attorneys for depositors.

NO REAL RAIN

New England Drought to Continue—Great Suffering From Dry Spell

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Fair weather is predicted in the forecast given out at the local office of the United States weather bureau last night, and there seems little prospect that the drought will soon be broken, although the weather man said there is a possibility of light or scattered showers in some parts of New England. However, there was nothing on the weather map last night to show that a rain-storm of sufficient magnitude to be of any great value to the dry and parched territory is on the way.

The excessive dry spell has continued for more than a month and a half and has enveloped all New England. From Sept. 1 to Oct. 13 the average rainfall for the section has been only one inch, or 2.35 inches below the average normal rainfall.

Or the six New England states, Connecticut and Massachusetts have suffered most, the precipitation in the latter being but a trifle more than a half inch or nearly three inches below normal, the official figures being: Precipitation .57 of an inch, deficiency 2.51 of an inch. In Connecticut the official figures show a precipitation of .35 and a deficiency of 2.50.

In Maine the rainfall was 1.48 and the deficiency 2.17; Vermont, precipitation 2.12, deficiency .91, and Rhode Island .77 and 2.60.

While these figures show the averages for the whole section and for the several states, some scattered points have suffered even worse. Concord, Mass., for instance, having had a rainfall of only .12 inch during the period from Sept. 1 to yesterday. Other points, however, have been more fortunate and have received more rain than is shown in the figures, but at no point in New England has the rainfall during this period been up to the nominal average.

Attempt of Germans to Crush Right Wing of Allies Continues--Paris Says Operations of Allies are Developing Normally

GOV. HAMLIN TALKS ON FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14.—Governor Charles S. Hamlin of the federal reserve board was the principal speaker today at the convention of the American Bankers' association. Gov. Hamlin told the bankers that he hoped to see the new system in operation in a short time and predicted that it would prove an immense advantage to the country.

The European war furnished Mr. Hamlin with an opportunity to compliment the bankers on the spirit they have shown in helping to restore disturbed financial conditions but he gave warning that the problems which have arisen from the war should not be attacked so that the remedies proposed are worse than the disease.

He said in part:

"The federal reserve banks are quickly approaching the time of opening and operation. As soon as certain necessary preliminaries have been accomplished, their doors will open for business. Many important questions are now pending before the reserve board. Among these are clearances of checks and the definition of eligible commercial paper."

Branches in Foreign Countries

"I want to emphasize the necessity of establishing branches of our national banks in foreign countries. We have already approved applications for two branches in South America and one on the Isthmus of Panama."

"Along these lines our financial energies should operate to the great benefit of agriculture, commerce and the manufacturing industries of our country."

"Our present difficulties do not appear to arise from the scarcity of actual money or banknotes. There seems to be an ample supply in the United States and much more can be issued."

"The real difficulty would seem to be one of credit. Mutual trust and confidence have been disturbed. As to certain great crops the demand has temporarily greatly decreased in consequence of the war and value has left its moorings—the cost of production. Ordinarily such a condition would quickly adjust itself. We should see to it that the remedies proposed are not worse than the disease itself."

PORTUGAL DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

50,000 Germans in Ghent—Russians Evacuate Lemberg, Galicia, After Fierce Fight—Gen. Marcot, Noted French Leader, Killed—Belgian Government Reestablished at Havre—Russians and Germans in Great Battle—Paris Denies Berlin Reports

Madrid sends a report from Lisbon that Portugal has declared war on Germany. Portugal has a treaty with Great Britain by which she agrees to furnish 10,000 men when they are required.

The attempt of the Germans to crush the right wing of the allies in the old French province of Picardy continues with little to indicate the course of the battle.

This afternoon's French official statement says that the operations of the allies as far as the Oise are developing normally.

Of scarcely less importance and with the same ultimate object in view, is the struggle of the Germans from Antwerp to reach the coast. Nothing definite of this situation has been revealed. Paris announces that there was fighting in the region of Ghent Tuesday and that English and French troops have occupied Ypres, 30 miles southwest of Bruges.

A report from The Hague is that 50,000 Germans have entered Ghent, a large number of them later leaving for Bruges with the purpose of continuing to Ostend.

A despatch from Ostend says that only a few Belgian and British remain in Ostend, indicating that the allied armies have gone east to meet the oncoming Germans.

The Belgian government has now been re-established at Havre, France.

A Petrograd despatch says it is believed there that a great battle between the Russians and the Austro-German forces is being waged along the Vistula river at points not revealed. The Germans made an aeroplane attack on Nancy Tuesday, pitting a railroad train and injuring three persons.

It is reported from Berlin that the Germans are preparing to attack the French fortified city of Belfort.

The former German cruisers Breslau and Gothen, which were sold to Turkey, are said to have appeared in the Black sea.

The British ambassador at Constantinople has requested the women of the embassy to leave on Monday, according to a despatch from Amsterdam.

CITY HALL NEWS

Candidates After Nomination Papers—Kind Words for Mr. Kernan

Bear in mind that today will be the last day of registration for the state election. The registrars office at city hall will not close until 10 o'clock tonight.

The time for filing nomination papers for the municipal preliminary election will expire at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of November 7, four days after the date of the state election. Candidates to take out their nomination papers for aldermen, thus far are as follows: Newell F. Putnam, 36 Marlboro street; George H. Brown, 272 Merrimack street; Frank R. Richard, 420 Fletcher street; Abel R. Campbell, 23 Harris avenue; John W. Ollara, 3 rear 104 High street, and Henry F. Aubrey, in River road, off Andover street.

Taxes Coming In

At the city treasurer's office this morning it was stated that the tax collections up to date exceed last year's collections for a like period by more than $24,000. Beginning tonight and continuing Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week, and Monday and Tuesday nights of next week, the city treasurer's office will be open from 7 to 9 o'clock, for the accommodation of those who find it inconvenient to pay their taxes during working hours. The total amount collected up to date is $123,345.44 as against $105,238.52 the corresponding period last year.

Very Healthy Fall

Asked today as to Lowell's general health, Agent Bates of the board of health said that the fall thus far has been an exceptionally healthy one. According to the books at the board of health office there are only 6 cases of scarlet fever in the city at the present time; seven cases of diphtheria, 2 cases of typhoid fever, 1 case of cerebro spinal meningitis, and 1 case of infantile paralysis.

This is the season of the year when disease is most apt to show its head.

BOSTON MAN RESPONDS TO STIRRING APPEAL FROM DAUGHTER IN ENGLAND

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Stirred by an appeal from his daughter, Mrs. Richard Howarth, of Hale, Cheshire, England, formerly Pauline Firth, the noted horsewoman and golfer, who wrote describing the terrible condition of thousands of Belgian children, driven from their homes and country without even sufficient clothes to cover them, William Firth, an importer of textile machinery with an office at 200 Devonshire street, has begun a campaign to get clothing for the Belgians in England.

Three days ago Mr. Firth announced his intention. The response to his appeal has been generous. At once checks and packages of clothing began to flow into his office. Already he has sent twenty cases, containing 14,000 pieces of clothing suitable for men, women and children, to Manchester, England, and has secured a total of $250 in cash and clothing.

Mrs. Howarth will personally supervise its distribution.

Thousands of children of all ages are now scattered throughout the towns and villages of England. As they arrived at the seaport towns they were sent to families inland.

Mrs. Howarth saw some of the little refugees in her village. Not only were they unkempt and unpared for what had even been atrociously mutilated, according to Mrs. Howarth. In a letter to her father she writes:

"Picture little tots, boys and girls, with their hands and ears cut off. I saw one little girl whose ears had been struck off close to her head. The children are in an awful state. They need clothing, hats, caps, shoes, everything and anything will help. If you can get any of these things, no matter what their style, cut or anything else, as long as they are clothing, they will be a godsend. I will personally distribute what you send." What I cannot use to advantage hereabouts, I will take to London with me and give out there."

FRANCE LOVES JOFFRECHARACTERISTICS OF SILENT MAN WHO IS INCARNATION OF THE SOUL OF FRANCE

Like William the Silent and Molto, who was "silent in seven languages," Gen. Joffre is notably taciturn, and he has been silent through a laborious military career of 44 years. He is now 61, but still in the full vigor of his strength of body and mind, and by far the most noteworthy figure which this surprising war has so far disclosed. Clemenceau sharply criticized him and the others of the general staff, but he, too, has reversed his judgment since the immobilization proved their foresight and complete organization of the military resources. A little more and General Joffre will be the incarnation of the soul of France in her life-and-death struggle.

Joffre was a first-year military engineer at the difficult Ecole Polytechnique, and only 17 years of age when the war of 1870 broke out. He enlisted and fought like the rest to the bitter end. He came out a lieutenant, and was employed, when peace allowed, on the plans for the new fortifications of Paris. Marshal MacMahon who was himself not a talker, noticed his calm silence amid the other officers in a visit to one of the forts, and unexpectedly saluted him. "My compliments, captain!" So he was a captain at 22, long before his time, and he was sent to organize the defences of Pontarlier, just where the Germans, if they break through at Belfort, may now sweep down along the Swiss frontier. Then he went out to build forts in Tonkin; but Admiral Courbet, who was in charge, sent the horn commander, and set him to fighting at the head of the troops. He was kept fighting, west in Dahomey, and he was the first to enter Thionville, speaking never a word. He was silent in Madagascar, where he fortified Diego Suarez slightly. Back in France, he was made a professor at the higher war school, and became successively general of the brigade, of division and of a corps d'armes. He came to have the confidence of all as a strategist and organizer—and, with all the radical hostility to the army, he was never reproached with reaction or not being faithful to the republic. When the nomination of general-in-chief had to be made by the higher war council, Gen. Pau, who lost his arm at Sedan, pointed with his remaining hand to Joffre—and the nomination was unanimous.

The public knows little of persons, but it knew that the law of three years' compulsory service, which has saved France, was due largely to Gen. Joffre's foresight. And these three weeks of his command have made confidence in him universal. Time will tell how far his silence will lead to victory; but, until now, no newspaper correspondent even knows where General-in-Chief Joffre and his headquarters are placed yesterday or today, or shall be tomorrow. "Joffre's headquarters?" said a military man who may have known and may not: "It's a mystery."

The pope who has just died would have liked that figure of speech, for he more than once expressed his opinion that even his monks talked too much. Perhaps this all but universal war will drift suffering humanity towards a new era where silence shall be appreciated as strength. And this time, let it be noted while it lasts, the silent man is the Frenchman.

KILLED ON HONEYMOON

JOHN IZZO, 23, AND HIS BRIDE, 20, WERE FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL—ASPHYXIATED BY GAS

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—John Izzo, 23 years old, and his bride, aged 20, were found dead in a local hotel yesterday, having been asphyxiated by illuminating gas. They were married at Mechanicsville Sunday night, and were on their way to Boston to spend their honeymoon.

They arrived at the hotel shortly after midnight Sunday and yesterday afternoon a maid detecting the odor of gas traced it to the room of the young couple. Gas was flowing from a partly open jet in the chandelier. There was no evidence of suicide, the coroner stating that it was evidently an accident.

Both were residents of Mechanicsville, Mr. Izzo being an employee of the Boston & Maine Railroad company.

ASK THAT SECRETARY OF STATE BE COMBLED TO ACCEPT NOMINATION IN RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 14.—Leaders of one faction of the progressive party in Rhode Island petitioned the state supreme court yesterday for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept progressive nominations made at a convention Saturday.

The convention endorsed R. Livingston Beckman for governor, and all the other republican nominees for general state offices except J. Emery San Souci for lieutenant governor, for which place Walter G. Hartford, a progressive, was named. A previous progressive convention had nominated a straight party ticket.

Mr. Hartford tried to present a list of the nominations to the secretary of state, who, saying the progressive ticket already was on file, refused to receive Mr. Hartford's papers.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferment and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartics and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. COPY HANK GOWDY ALL GO TO FRONTMother of 11 Lets All Serve Country — Four Already Killed

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—If Boston business men will use the same sacrifice to further the commercial fortunes of Boston that Hank Gowdy did on Monday to bring victory to the Braves' banner, Boston will be in as commanding a position commercially as the Braves will be in baseball after today's game," said Postmaster William F. Murry at the assembly luncheon of the Boston chamber of commerce at the American house yesterday noon.

"In the 12th inning," he continued, "Gowdy knocked a two-bagger. When he arrived at second he called for someone who was a swifter runner than he to come and take his place, so that there would be no chance of his slow running making a double play possible. In spite of the chance to score the winning run and the glory that would go with it, Gowdy sacrificed his own feelings for the play that would win. Let Boston business men take this example to heart."

The Peruvian minister, Frederico Alfonso Beozet, an ardent baseball fan, in response to Mayor Curley's remark that the minister had shut the Peruvian legation up and come to Boston for the games, said:

"I wish to say that instead of shutting the legation up for the ball games, I brought it with me. As a matter of fact, wherever the minister is there the legation is located. Yesterday the Peruvian legation watched the Braves win their third straight."

John J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, announced that all the players of that team are signed up for next year, and that he expects that next season the champions of the two leagues, both of Boston, will play against each other for the world's championship at Fenway park.

Major Curley, who acted as toastmaster, made a plea for better trade relations with Peru and the rest of South America, incidentally informing the gathering that Boston now has the lowest death rate of any city in the United States for per capita wealth.

At the last moment, Gov. Toner, August Herrmann and Ban B. Johnson, the league magnates, were obliged to forego the luncheon because of matters that had to be settled before the game.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

(In Tablet or Liquid Form)

helps women to retain their youthful looks because it removes the cause of most of the troubles peculiar to women. It is a tonic—invigorating and health-restoring—prepared from native remedial plants under the direction of a physician especially learned in the ills and needs of women. It will help you to retain the looks of youth and the buoyant step and bright spirits you are so sure to lose unless the feminine organs are helped to perform their functions naturally.

For forty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used with satisfaction and benefit by thousands and thousands of women. It can now be obtained in tablet or liquid form from all dealers in medicines—or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., for a trial box.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets tone the stomach, stimulate the liver, regulate the bowels. One to three tiny granules to a dose. Pleasant to take as candy.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

PRETTY ANKLES

Pretty ankles are a rarity and not the rule. It is a pity too, as nowadays a woman's ankle is quite prominent, because of the short skirts and low shoes made of dressing.

If you want your ankles to be well shaped, don't stand on the sides of your feet. If you have any inclination to do so, your feet need more support than your shoes are giving them. Get a pair of arch supports and wear them until the inclination no longer exists.

Just as harmful as standing on the sides of your feet is the habit of turning them sideways when you are sitting down.

BERLIN CLAIMS FALSE RUSSIAN AND GERMAN FORCES IN GREAT BATTLE

Says Paris Official Announcement —Victories and Progress of the Allies All Along Line Reported

PARIS, Oct. 14.—3:10 p. m.—The following official announcement was given out in Paris this afternoon:

The Belgian field of operations witnessed some encounters during the night of October 12-13, and during the day of the 13th in the region around Ghent. English and French troops have occupied Ypres.

First: On our left wing as far as the Oise the operations are developing normally.

Second: On the center previous reports of the progress of our armies in the region of Berry-Au-Bac have been confirmed.

Third: On our right wing there is nothing to report.

While it is not our custom to reply to the inaccuracies of the German press it seems to us proper to deny the false news printed in certain German newspapers concerning the pretended destruction of two divisions of French cavalry. This information is absolutely erroneous. The truth is that certain forces of French and German cavalry with supports have been engaged for several days along the front at La Bassée.

The German cavalry succeeded in making very slight advance between the canal of La Bassée and the Lys but they were obliged to draw back in the territory north of the Lys.

The losses sustained by the German cavalry are assuredly as perceptible as our own. One of the German divisions suffered particularly because it was pursued during the entire day by our aviators who did not cease to throw bombs down upon the German troops.

Another cause is the fact that the Germans announce that they are undertaking the investment of Verdun. In this instance also to learn the truth, it is sufficient to refer to the situation as set forth on several different occasions in the French official communications.

The Germans have not succeeded up to the present time in hurling themselves against the fortified position of Verdun. They have, however, made two full efforts to envelop at a considerable distance the French forces which are operating around Verdun. One of these efforts was characterized by their attempt to go through the Argonne forest between Bapaume and Varennes. It will be recalled that this movement failed with very important losses. We did not even announce at the time that two German batallions had been annihilated by this document.

The other enveloping movement on the part of the Germans undertaken in much greater numerical strength was directed toward crossing the Meuse in the region of St. Mihiel. If the Germans succeeded in reaching this river on the front between Malzey and Chauvencourt, all their efforts to advance further resulted in failure.

These German forces, found themselves caught on the flanks by detachments of our troops which advanced from the south to the north through the southern section of the heights of the Meuse and through the southern section of the Woëvre district.

POLICE COURT DOCKET

HUNTERS BROUGHT IN FROM CHELMSFORD WERE RELEASED —LAND NOT POSTED

Four men and four women occupied the gilded cage in the Market street station this morning when court convened shortly after 10 o'clock and the majority of those were there to answer to minor offences. Several others, however, who were out on bail, also appeared before the local tribunal.

The three men who were brought in from Chelmsford by Game Wardens Marie and Peck last Monday, charged with hunting upon land that was posted, were released after a short hearing.

The land upon which the men were charged with hunting was not posted, the evidence developed. The signs simply read that trespassing was forbidden thereon.

Carl C. Laidlaw was on the wrong side and this fact cost him $2. It was the wrong side of the street that Laidlaw was on, we forgot to mention.

George Attilian struck out miserably when he attempted to frame a defense for his ease of driving a machine without the required headlight. The defendant failed to meet any of the curves sent at him by Deputy Downey and was put out of the game minus a $10 note.

Peter Durand and his wife, Jennie, were charged with going after too many high balls in one game and acknowledged their guilt. Peter, before his initial offense, was allowed to make a home run without hindrance from Outfielders Peter Cawley and Phil Dwyer, and Jennie suffered a $8 rebuke.

DEATHS

MILLER—Died Oct. 13th, in this city, Mrs. Mary A. Miller, aged 83 years, widow and daughter of her late husband, South Lorraine street. Mrs. Miller was a member of the First Congregational church and General B. F. Butler Woman's Relief corps, No. 75, G. A. R.

DAGLE—Lorenzo Daigle, aged 23 years, 6 months and 14 days, died this morning at the home of his parents, 212 Cumberland road. Decedent is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daigle; three brothers, Lucien, Orville and Oscar; four sisters, Mrs. William L'Escoigne, Mrs. Anna Andrus Dubois and Miss Pauline Daigle, of this city and Mrs. Flora Capone of Pittsburg.

She was a member of the Holy Family sodality of St. Patrick's parish.

DUNLAVY—Mrs. Catherine Dunlavy died this morning at her late home, 41 Pinehill street, aged 43 years, after a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband, Thomas Dunlavy, and two children, John and Dorothy Dunlavy. She was a prominent member of St. Peter's church. Funeral notice later.

MURRAY—Mrs. Anna Murray died this morning at St. John's hospital after a brief illness, aged 56 years. She is survived by her husband, James Murray, two sisters, Margaret and Julia Mahoney, of Providence, one brother, Jeremiah Mahoney of Ireland. She was a devout attendant of the Sacred Heart church. Funeral notice later. Her remains were returned to the family.

According to the records of the Leeks and Canals Co., there was only one-eighth of an inch of rain during August and no rain in September and October. The officials of the company are trying to solve the water problem, that is to make out how the river gets its supply of water with the scarcity of rain. It was stated at the office this afternoon that this season is a very unusual one. The locks to the canals were closed on Sunday and Monday and despite that fact, there was not a drop of water that went over the dam, for only 3½ feet of water accumulated at the falls.

MERRIMACK RIVER LOW

On account of the long continued drought the Merrimack river is exceptionally low, but nevertheless it is not expected that the shortage of water will necessitate the shutting down of mills.

FIRE AT NORTH BILLERICA

The North Billerica fire department was called out again this morning to extinguish a brush fire in Sheep's woods. This being the fifth time within a few days that fire has been discovered in that section. The fire did not prove so stubborn as on previous occasions and was put out in a very short time, no damage being done.

GERMANS MAKE ADVANCE

Kaiser's Troops Attempt to Repeat Sweeping Movement That Took Them Almost to Paris

Struggle Along the Vistula River Will Probably Last for Weeks—Petrograd Correspondent Describes Sinking of Russian Cruiser by Germans

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent in a despatch dated Tuesday says he believes that a great struggle which has now been going on for three days between the Russians and the Austro-German forces along the Vistula river in an arena other than had been expected is the beginning of a battle which probably will last for weeks.

Continuing his discussion of the conflict, the correspondent says:

"It is occurring on a front 60 miles long on the left bank of the Vistula, presumably representing the centre of the German hosts. It may be supposed that the Austrian remnants, ill-fated up with heavy losses from the last reverse, have succeeded in recovering some semblance of an organized army under the shield of a German corps in the neighbourhood of Cracow and that the German advance towards Cracow has during the week of silence, which has just passed, been withdrawn. Meanwhile, the Germans on the East Prussian frontier are utilizing their network of frontier railroads to throw forces from flank to flank in an endeavor to hold the few positions still left untenanted."

From descriptions given of the warfare proceeding along the front it appears that neither side is anxious to move more than mark time, the Russians being content with having defeated and thrown the Germans back onto their own frontiers."

Regarding the sinking of the Russian armored cruiser Pallada by German submarines in the Baltic, the correspondent says:

"I hear that the German submarine attack on Russian cruisers on two successive days and the sinking of the Pallada on the second day occurred quite 500 or 600 miles from any German port. The inference follows that either the Germans have succeeded in establishing some base for this species of warfare in the Baltic in a spot unknown or else Germany has contrived to mislead neutrality. None of those aboard were saved but six members of the crew were left behind ashore. The total loss is about 475 men and officers."

in the German lines since an early stage in the hostilities. Its occupation today does not seem to have been seriously opposed; in fact it is explained here that it could not have been without disarranging the allies' line. According to observers in London, the Germans have been particularly anxious to reach Antwerp and thus secure control of the railroads to the north and to the south. But, according to a French official announcement the allies have checked their movement in this direction and have made a "marked advance" between Arras and Albert where the principal German effort centered. The intermixing of the armies along a front of hundreds of miles appears to day to be as chaotic as in the news, concerning the operations furnished by the intelligence departments of the different headquarters. The French armies are declared to be gaining ground at Berry Au Bac, northwest of Rheims and at Soissons on the east side of the cathedral city while at least one portion of the German army under the Duke of Wurtemburg is still stoutly holding its position between the plains of the Marne. Again farther to the east, the French occupying Armentier in the forest of the Ardennes, well to the northwest of Verdun and Verdun is the position which the army under the German crown prince has so long been trying to reduce. Ease of the position of the crown prince, the French are said to be pushing toward Metz. It is reported that in order to improve the crown prince's chances of reducing Verdun some of the siege guns released from Antwerp are now on the way to join him.

THE WAR REVENUE BILL

Proposed Taxation of Proprietary Medicines Ordered Stricken Out —Other Changes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Proposed amendment to the proposed tax on the war revenue bill was ordered stricken out today by the democrats of the senate finance committee. Re-shipment of newspapers and provide that all bundles included in a general package on a single train or other conveyance should be regarded as one shipment. In lieu of bills of lading, the amendment would require publishers to issue on the 15th of each month a sworn statement of the number of such shipments made in the preceding month and attach to these statements stamps to the value of one cent for each shipment. Shipments of newspapers made within the county of publication would be exempted from tax.

Some time later Mr. Robarge realized consciousness and he found that his assailants had disappeared. He drove home in a hurry and upon reaching his house he found that the money he carried in his inside coat pocket, $20 in bank notes, was missing. Mr. Robarge believes he could easily recognize one of the assailants for he saw enough of one man to give a good description of him. Mr. Robarge in conversation with a Sun reporter said that part of Goodhue avenue where the assault occurred is very dark and is noted to be a dangerous place. There are no houses or lights on either side of the street and very few people dare venture through the avenue after dark. He said it is about time something should be done by the police to protect the citizens of that vicinity.

Action of the committee, however, did not include the elimination of the proposed tax on perfumes, cosmetics and chewing gum, which had been added to the house bill.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE SEVERAL SMALL FIRES

BUSY FORENOON FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT—BOYS START BLAZE IN FRUIT WAGON

The fire department was called out three times within an hour today for three unimportant fires. At 11:40 o'clock a telephone alarm summoned the members of the Westford street house to a field near Vernon avenue, where a brush fire was in progress. The damage was slight.

At 12:20 o'clock a brush fire was discovered near Vernon avenue and a portion of the department responded. No damage.

An alarm from Box 116, Adams street, corner Cross street, at 12:35, was for a fire in a fruit wagon which was stationed near the corner of Adams street and Broadway. It is claimed that the fire was started by boys throwing lighted matches. The hay in the bottom of the wagon proved good fuel for the flames but the quick response of the fire department saved the wagon from being destroyed. The wagon was owned by Isaac Simmons.

At 1:40 o'clock this afternoon the fire department was again called to Vernon avenue where smoke was seen from the scene of this noon's brush fire. The firemen remained on the scene of action for some time.

Another brush fire broke out in a field near West Forrest street and necessitated a telephone alarm a few minutes before 2 o'clock. A small spot burned over with little damage.

OPENING OF THE EVENING SCHOOLS

Large Attendance at All the Schools, Chiefly at High School

Vocational School Has Increased Attendance Over Last Year

Last night marked the opening of the evening schools for the fall and winter seasons. An ordinary, not extraordinary attendance, was reported at all of the schools—the high, elementary and vocational schools. The registration will compare favorably with that of a year ago.

The actual attendance at the high school last night was 804. The registration for the opening night was 313. Principal Thomas G. Robbins thinks that the registration this year will not exceed that of four years ago, when the largest number in the history of the high school registered. The total registration this year will be over 1100. The civil service class promises to be popular and one of the most useful in the school.

There were 260 girls on hand for the opening of the vocational school on Common street. In the men's department 81 appeared for the classes. The total registration of the school is about 500 girls and 160 men. The machine class last evening was crowded with men anxious to improve in practice work.

TO ADVANCE THAW CASE

MOTION MADE IN SUPREME COURT—CHANCE FOR "UNWRITTEN LAW" DECISION REMOVED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Motions were made in the supreme court yesterday to advance the extradition case of Harry K. Thaw and the Danbury Hatters' case, in which the Hatters' union was held liable for $252,000 damages under the Sherman antitrust law.

Failure of Carl Oliver, of Texas to have the record in his case printed resulted yesterday in the dismissal by the supreme court of his appeal from a conviction of murder and removed the possibility of the court announcing its position of the "unwritten law."

Oliver shot a white man in company with his wife. His appeal to the supreme court claimed the trial judge should have charged the jury that the negro has the same right to defend the honor of his home as a white man.

ATTACK BY J. J. MULLEN

Candidate for Alderman in Everett Assails High Tax Rate and Present Administration at Rally

EVERETT, Oct. 14.—The municipal campaign in this city opened yesterday with an open-air rally in the interest of John J. Mullen, candidate for alderman in ward 4, at the corner of Union and Malden streets, East Everett.

Mr. Mullen attacked the administration at city hall and the high tax rate.

THE ROMANCE CLUB

The "Romance Club" held its regular meeting last evening at the home of Miss Ethel Erickson, in Cadell avenue. Miss Margaret O'Donnoughue was unanimously chosen president, while Miss Ida Brooks and Miss Mary Queenan were chosen secretary and treasurer respectively. An excellent musical program was carried out, including solos by Miss Anna Owens, Miss Lillian Dow, and Miss Anna Curran, assisted by the other members. Supper was served and the party broke up at a reasonable hour, voting to hold the next meeting at the home of Miss Ida Brooks.

HOLD HUSKING BEES

A most enjoyable husking bee party was held Monday night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Chelmsford Congregational church. The affair was held at the Dickinson farm, those attending being conveyed to the farm in a large barge. The attendance numbered nearly 100 and a most pleasant evening was spent.

MANAGER CARROLL

To Leave This City in Order to Take Charge of Another Theater at Salem

The many Lowell friends of F. Jas. Carroll, manager of the Merrimack Square theatre will regret to learn that he has severed his connection with the Lowell house and will move to Salem, Mass., this week, where he is to take charge of the Salem Theatre company.

Mr. Carroll has been in this city for the past four years and during his stay here he has won public confidence by his good judgment in providing the people with clean instructional and enjoyable entertainments.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

Perhaps never before has a local audience enthused over a performance of any stock company the way the one which attended the performance at the Merrimack Square theatre did last night, witnessing "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." That is, to be sure rather a broad statement, but it's true nevertheless. And there is ample reason for the splendid way which they have received it, equally deservedly. The lines, situations, and scenes are all built on a clever foundation and from this arises laughs aplenty. Sam A. AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

Tomorrow the semi-weekly change of program at the Opera House occurs, and another of those farcical musical comedies which have met with such popular favor is to be presented on a screen. The "Irish Christening," this screaming farce has been a riot whenever presented and it gives "Jimmie" Lee and the remainder of the cast parts in which they show to their best advantage. The young ladies in the chorus will be seen in a variety of scenes while the scenic production carries on. This performance will be up to the standard set by the management since their first appearance in this city, of "Nothing Cheap" but the "Prices."

Tonight is the "Country Store," when many useful articles are to be had by the persons holding the day coupons, and the management wishes to state that nothing will be given but what is most useful to the one receiving same. The prices will remain the same, 10 cents for any seat at the matinee, and 10, 15 and 20 cents at night. Seats may be reserved in advance by calling at the Gorham street box office or calling telephone 201.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Loialard," with its wealth of bright lines and its unusual theme and situations, is one of the feature acts at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. Pretty Regina Connell and her able supporting company, with Bert Marotta in a special role, give one of the best one-act comedies seen here for a long time. The basis upon which the play was written is not only new but is a theme which is readily understandable. The Five Sullivans, with their musical farce called "The Information Bureau," have their vehicle speeded up well, and during the intermission going on at the time, during the intermission, the Indian piano-accordionist, can play anything from an overture to a mixie, and whatever he plays is bound to be liked.

He is one of the strongest features of the entire bill. Gilmore & Castle, black face dancers and comedians, offer a superior brand, and the Puppeteers, the best ever seen here. The Joelen Sisters are pretty, wire walkers and sharpshooters, and Tinsman & Tinsman are acrobats. The Hearst-Sells News Pictorial concludes the bill. Good seats may be obtained in advance. Phone 28.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Probably the most sensational feature melodrama ever projected on a screen is the honor claimed by the promoters of "The Iron Man," which is to be the chief attraction of the Academy of Music today and tomorrow.

This wonderful masterpiece has been aimed with a lavish disregard for either money or personal danger.

It is a story of how a detective, single-handed and alone, ran down and captured the slickest gang of crooks and conspirators in the history of robbing and kidnapping.

Every trick known to mechanical and electrical science was used by the gang of social outlaws, but the keen brain of the human bloodhound always gave him the upper hand.

It is seen the detective walks into a trap cleverly set for him. He is bound and gagged and thrown into a subterranean passage. Here he liberates himself by short-circuiting a 4500 volt electric circuit and burns his bonds by means of the death dealing electrical torch.

This picture was secured by the management of the academy at considerable expense and the prices of admission will not be raised. However, it will be impossible to exhibit this masterpiece after Thursday evening, as it goes direct from here to one of the largest theatres in Boston for a long run.

"Convict No. 1417," or "A Modern Rip Van Winkle," is the title of another remarkable feature to be included in the show. Here is a story that will reach home, as it is a tale that actually happened and will surely appeal to you on account of its human appeal. You will like it.

Then there are two Kippy Komedies to round out one of the most perfect programs ever shown in any theatre, no matter what the prices of admission charged.

"Love and Bullets" is a Keystone.

No more need be said about that. "Bill Manages a Prize Fight" is from the famous Komic studios and is everybody's favorite comedian. "Bill"

There are a number of other classy pictures to make this show one that you will talk about for weeks after it is gone.

Friday night, as usual, will be given over to the amateurs, with Bill Looney as master of ceremonies and Mrs. Dora Wigley officiating at the music box.

On Saturday afternoon free candy will be distributed to every boy and girl attending the matinee performance. There will also be a special program for the kiddies, including a number of war pictures taken in Europe.

THE OWL THEATRE

FIGHTING IN ALOST, BELGIUM. COPYRIGHT 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

J. Frank Broklik, a motion picture photographer, was in the town of Alost, Belgium, when it was taken by the Germans. He made this picture of the fighting behind a street barricade. The film shows men falling after being slain by shrapnel. Finally the German gunners got the range, and shells fell so thickly that the photographer said he felt that he had to move to a place of safety if only to protect his film. It is doubtful if any motion picture photographer ever before stood by his camera under such dangerous conditions.

BUY CLOTH RATHER THAN COTTON

A great many newspapers of influence are pointing out what they consider an inconsistency in the "Buy-a-hale-of-cotton" movement, and it must be confessed with good logic and rather convincing arguments. While approving of the spirit, they hold that a movement to buy cotton cloth would have had the same effect on the south while it would benefit other branches of the cotton business as well and counter a more practical benefit on those who would thereby mix philanthropy and shrewd business sense in good proportion. "It would be a much more effective movement," says the Manchester Union, "for every one in the United States to buy cotton cloth. There are few families in which an entire 'cut' of cotton cloth could not be made good use of in one way and another, and if one-half the families in the United States should buy one-half as much, there would be a demand which would set every cotton mill at work overtime while its buying agents were hustling about to buy raw cotton, not by the bale but by the earload and shipload."

To help the cotton crop of the south is an excellent thing, but what of the other crops that have suffered owing to the war in Europe? Almost all agricultural products have been affected and of all so affected, perhaps the cotton crop has been most fortified by past profits. The cotton manufacturers have held that for years the price of cotton has been kept high artificially, and they cannot be blamed if they feel that the end desired would be achieved quite as well if the manufacturer were helped directly with an indirect benefit to the producer. It is certain that the possession of a large supply of cotton cloth does not entitle the speculating features of the possession of a bale of cotton which is held for high prices.

Another consideration that booms the buying of cloth rather than the bale is the fact that with the shortage of other textile products, there will be an unusually large demand for cotton in a few months with possibly a natural effect on prices. Not only will the foreign market for cotton cloth be increased but it will be bought more generally in our own country. Incidentally, the general buying of large quantities of cotton would benefit Lowell far more than high prices of raw cotton in the south. It is worth thinking over.

DANGER TO TRAFFIC

Sometimes without anybody in particular being at fault a combination of circumstances entails grave danger to the community or that part of it vitally interested. The cannot reasonably attribute the responsibility, perhaps, to any individual or group, but the experience and warnings for the future. Those who loitered in the lower part of Belgium for any time Sunday morning may readily apply this reasoning to a traffic danger in that vicinity that all but had most serious consequences.

It would seem that very late Saturday or early on Sunday a city sprinkler person over East Merrimack street and into High, leaving a very liberal supply of water en route. A few days before, Neenish street and other streets in the neighborhood had received their third or fourth application of oil. Apparently a pretty thick coat of dust had settled over the entire moist section and over all the falling leaves had spread a pretty but treacherous carpet. About 10 o'clock a thick slimy paste was spread over the steep hill from High street to the Immaculate Conception church—a paste made up of oil, water, dust and rotting leaves. Lest anybody should think this criticism super-critical those who stayed for any length of time in the vicinity can testify to the many narrow escapes that resulted.

East Merrimack street is used a great deal by automobileists coming into the city, and many of those who drove from Belgium on Sunday were totally unprepared for the condition of the hill. The day was clear and cool and there was nothing to indicate the danger spot. Accordingly an after-car drove down at a fair rate and skidded for a considerable distance. One skidded almost entirely across the street at the base of the hill, ran onto the sidewalk and was stopped only by crashing into a pole. The occupant of the car luckily escaped injury but the car was towed to a nearby garage. Within five minutes a little car occupied by two young men had a similar escape. So common was the occurrence that the groups in the corners therabouts watched every car coming into town to note the result. Had there been a serious accident—there well might have been—the public would be laid in a criticism of the management that made such a condition possible.

Now the city cannot prevent dust from settling on the streets and it cannot help autumn leaves on the trees, but it can perhaps sprinkle water on a steep hill, when to do so sprinkle it entails very real danger. It may be that previous rains have washed a considerable quantity of oil into the gutters from upper Belgium, but an effort should be made to provide against such emergencies. The tires of autos running over the oil-soaked section are prepared to skid very nicely without the doubly dangerous addition of a jelly-like paste that makes it impossible for a car to go at any speed with safety. At such a busy and well patronized corner as this, the street should be kept in good condition and cars should be taken in sprinkling or oiling that the interests of the public are safeguarded.

Accounts of auto accidents are narrowing enough when they happen at a distance; we should provide against them in this city by every means in our power.

This is an extract from the Brockton Times:

We take the following from the Salem News: "At a fire drill yesterday morning in the High school the 920 pupils who were in the building at the time passed out in perfect order in the very short time of two minutes and five seconds. Considering that none of the pupils knew that there was to be a fire drill until the signal of five bells was heard, the time was very short."

That would hardly do for Brockton. We have over 1500 pupils in our High school here, and they have been all clear of the school building in one minute and twenty-five seconds on a fire drill. Last year the record was even sharper than that, but there are a few more pupils in the school now than there were in 1913. Last year's record was 77 seconds. The Salem boys and girls did well, and where they can all get clear of a building in a little over two minutes there is not much danger of being caught by a fire, but Salem must speed up if it wants to be considered in the class with Brockton in this sort of competition.

This is a matter that undoubtedly will interest the management of our high school and, in fact, the entire Lowell public. How does Lowell's record compare with the other two?

TALK FIRE PREVENTION

Even at the risk of repetition, The Sun would again remind its readers to bear the need for constant caution with regard to fires in mind at this season of dry leaf drifts and Indian mable waste and forest rubble. A small blaze may at this season start a great conflagration and the long drought has prepared building and brush for the incendiary or negligently discarded match. The temptation to light fires is constantly before the children who play in the piles of dry leaves and it is only by talking fire prevention in the home, the school and through the columns of the press that the public may be continually educated. Until the leaves are vanished and the dumps of winter set in all our people should practice and preach fire prevention and all relating to it. The need for it is well exemplified by the activity of the local fire department for the past few days.

A LOST CAUSE

If anything he needed to prove the feeling of impulsive failure that permeates the republican ranks, it is very evident in the frantic efforts now being made to discredit the national administration. For the past few weeks anything that carries the democratic stamp has been shouted down in the republican end of the house with a vehemence that bespeaks party activity with an eye to the country at large. The administration can stand it, and afford to be patient. It listened to some very pointed attacks on the tariff, the currency, the Mexican question, and it had the satisfaction of seeing all three measures publicly approved and vindicated by the American people. Such relatively unimportant things as the war tax, little misplaced like storm. No amount of noise can drown out the chorus of popular approval.

SEEN AND HEARD

Happiness is contagious. But lots of us are immune.

About the only time a married man is right is when he admits that he is wrong.

Somehow or other the things that you get for nothing always manage to figure in the high cost of living.

You can always find hospitality in a hotel because you are expected to pay what it is worth.

A girl can make love to a man and make him imagine that he is doing all the love making.

Weather forecasters and doctors can get paid for guessing. But the rest of us have to be accurate.

After a man has been married for a while he imagines that when a woman's feet are not hurting her she is having a headache.

The lad who lets his wife take in washing so he can loaf is the same fellow who knows that the Rubber Trusts are ruining this country.

A woman doesn't pay a bit of attention to what her husband says all day. But she is afraid to close her eyes at night if he talks in his sleep.

The sort of girl who is chummy with her mother usually manages to take care of herself without the assistance of a chaperone.

If you will say nothing, be nothing and do nothing, you can always be reasonably certain that you won't have any enemies.

A fellow with an automobile and an extra ticket for the world's series inviting you to be his guest for the afternoon is listed with the things that never happen.

A woman always judges a new neighbor by the way the furniture looks in the moving van. But a man remembers how his furniture looked last time he moved.

Let us be fair. If a man didn't hog all his change for his personal comforts, and went 50-50 with his wife, the joke about her fishing his pockets at night would soon die for want of nourishment.

When two men are extremely polite to each other it is a sign that they don't like each other. But when they say: "Hello, you ornery old pup!"

It pays to wear a smiling face. And laugh our troubles down. For all our little trials wait Our laughter or our frown.

Beneath the magic of a smile Our doubts will fade away, As melts the frost in early spring Beneath the sunny ray.

It pays to make a worthy cause. By helping it, our own.

To give the current of our lives A true and noble tone.

It pays to comfort heavy hearts Oppressed with dull despair And leave in sorrow-darkened lives A gleam of brightness there.

To go with all their weariness Their courage and their truth;

To strive with sympathy and love Their confidence to win.

It pays to open wide the heart And let the sunshine in.

THE PRICE OF CANDOR Senator La Follette a propos of certain frank confessions in high finance, said to a reporter:

"Candid, at any rate, isn't it? In fact, it's all so very candid that it reminds me of Uncle Wash White."

"Uncle Wash had been a servant in the Carroll family for many years, and so, when young Charlie Carroll ran for congress he naturally expected the old man to support him. Charlie was a good deal disappointed, therefore, when the day after his defeat he heard that Wash had voted against him.

"He sent for the old man.

"Uncle Wash," he said, "is it true that you voted against me yesterday?" "Yes, Mars' Charles, I done voted for republican ticket," Uncle Wash admitted.

"Well," said the defeated candidate, "I like frankness anyhow; so here's a dollar for your candor."

"Uncle Wash punched the dollar. Then he scratched his head, chuckled, and said:

"Mars' Charles, if you're buying candy you owes me fo' dollars mo', kase I yoled agin ye five times." —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ENGLISH VIEW OF LINCOLN

The world is still waiting for the true life of one who was probably the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race in the last century. The time is coming near when we can judge him fairly. The part he played in the crisis of his country was so immense that the early lives were not unnatural of the "spread-eagle" type. Then, as time passed, and the literary genius of his countrymen fell in love with subtlety, there seemed less inclination to consider a mind and character which was essentially broad and simple. Now that the echoes of controversies are dying away, and at the same time nationalism is reviving in American letters, we may hope that the right biographer will arise. He must tell the tale as a drama, for Lincoln's career has the splendor of some great movement of nature. Like Cromwell, he does not make it; it is made for him, and he only accepts the guidance of Providence. Backwoods boy, ruffian, politician, statesman, lawyer, philosopher, president—the stages come so naturally that one forgets the human effort. The gods seem to be preparing the one man for the appointed hour. The greatness of Lincoln as president lay in his clear perception of one essential truth—that in the interests of posterity the Union must be maintained. Amid a throng of distracting side questions, he never lost sight of the main issue. It takes a very real intellectual greatness to stake everything upon an abstract truth. The tenacious heart of men had to wage a bloody and relentless war. This tenacious dogmatism of statesmen had to hold fast by one dogma, and shut his eyes to difficulties. Above all, he did not "look too good, nor talk too wise." The author of the most exalted speeches in English oratory since Burke transacted the ordinary business of life in language of homespun simplicity. His humor at once endeared him to his people and allowed him to "keep the common touch" in the terrible mysteries of high policy and war. It refreshes him to put a difficulty into homely idioms and illustrate it with a country tide.—The London Spectator.

CITIES NAMED AFTER HIM

Char. W. Smith, the manager of the Chicago branch of the Sinclair & Valentine Co., told at luncheon in the diners of the Chicago-Denver special train to the conventions of a member's speech of introduction of a Mr. Potts at a political meeting in a town in Eastern Pennsylvania. He prefaced his remarks by saying:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we have with us this evening a very distinguished gentleman, so much so that the great state of Pennsylvania has named three of its cities after him. They are Pottsville, Pottstown and Chambersburg."

NOT A TRUE INDICATOR

Smith, who lived in the west, left his home town early in his youth. Returning after several years, he was not by an elderly acquaintance whom he had not seen in the intervening time.

"Glad to see you, my boy," greeted the elderly one, "but you look as if you had not stuck to grape juice and soda water as closely as you should."

"You mustn't judge by appearances, uncle," smiled Smith. "I have never taken more than two or three glasses a day in all my life."

"Un, I see," responded the other. "Probably your face is like some gas meter; it registers more than you consume."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

THE "TELLTALES"

Railroad men are inspecting railroad "telltales" on the roads of the state. Recently the Massachusetts public service commission issued a set of regulations to apply to every railroad in the Commonwealth. "Bridge guards" are better known in some sections of the state as "telltales" and are placed 100 feet or more from an overhead bridge to warn trainmen, who are riding on the top of the cars, that they are approaching such a bridge. The laws of the state require every railroad corporation, at every bridge or other structure, any portion of which crosses the railroad above the track, to erect and maintain suitable bridge guards, unless exempted from that duty by the state board. Any corporation which neglects to comply with the provisions of this law shall forfeit $50 for each month's neglect and anyone who destroys or breaks any such bridge guard shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than 30 days.

ANTWERP

Antwerp was reckoned almost impregnable. After only ten days of siege it was taken by the Germans. And now they say that not only is the city gun ahead of the fort in the contest for supremacy; the fortress is after all not the defense. It was depended on to be. On the other hand, the value of its attachment is proved in the German defense in France. It was proved yesterday ago by the Romanians.

OUTLOOK FOR COTTON

AND THIS PROSPECT OF MAINTAINING OUR FOREIGN MARKET IN FACE OF DIFFICULTIES

For a long time the country was devoted to a policy of protecting home industries and building up domestic markets, with little regard for "abroad," except as a receptacle for its surplus of raw materials and food products which "abroad" was quite ready to send for, the Journal of Commerce says in discussing prospects for the cotton trade. Now for this attitude has changed as the result of development and material progress is strikingly illustrated by the calculations now made for the future as a consequence of the sudden interruption of our traffic with foreign nations. No interest of our people is more severely hit for the time being than that of the producers of cotton.

On the average of years something like three-fourths of the raw cotton of the world has been raised in the United States and of this more than two-thirds has been exported to other countries, making it the most important article in our foreign trade. For the 12 months ending with last June, 9,165,300 bales were sold abroad and of the recorded value was $610,475,301. Of this 3,451,666 bales, valued at $231,817,860, went to Great Britain, 2,756,220, valued at $181,891,920 to Germany and 1,091,137, valued at $73,918,742 to France.

OUR TRADE ABROAD

The United States with its great advantage in the production of the raw material, has had an insignificant part of the trade in finished goods and has been an importer of not a little of the finer grades. The total value of our exports of manufactured cotton goods in the last fiscal year was $28,844,027, of which over $8,000,000 went to China, $5,600,000 to the Philippines and nearly $2,000,000 to our neighbors in Canada and $1,500,000 to those in Mexico. This accounts for more than half of the whole. The bulk of the rest went to South America and the distant east. At the same time we imported such goods to the value of more than $70,000,000.

The question now agitated is what can be done in the present emergency to bring about a change that may have permanent effect upon our manufacturing industry and our foreign trade in the use of the material for which we have such an exceptional advantage. Taking Great Britain as the chief factor in competition and the one of the three mentioned above which is least crippled by the war, we find a heavy falling off in the present production, not only on account of the curtailment of material received and in prospect and the virtual closing of the markets for the goods, but as a result of the mobilization of troops and the call for volunteers for the army.

AMERICA'S OPPORTUNITY

Here would seem to be a great opportunity for the United States. How far are we in a position to take advantage of it? We have the material in super-abundance, and are seriously concerned at present for finding a market for it and avoiding a disastrous fall in the price while it is being held to await the revival of some thing like a normal demand. The markets for the goods which are accessible to us in spite of the war, and which are deprived of supplies which are wont to receive from Europe, are ready to take all we can furnish. This would seem to afford a stimulus to the utmost activity of our mills to their full capacity, and an increase of their capacity so far as that is practicable.

DIFFICULTIES IN WAY

The two chief difficulties in the way now are lack of banking and exchange facilities with the neutral nations, and lack of adaptation of the goods and of trading methods to the markets to be reached. This applies especially to Latin-American countries where the largest opportunity lies for establishing new relations and cultivating a future development. These are matters which cannot be rectified officially. It will take time to work out the problem and it should be done with ability and care and with an eye to permanent results, for the competition of nations which have already built up a trade where we are now seeking it is sure to revive, though with impaired energy and resources when the war is over.

In availing of the opportunity presented by an unusual and unforeseen emergency, therefore, every effort should be made to lay a new foundation upon which our trade may endure. There is need of banking facilities which shall be permanent and of all there must be the establishment of trade relations and methods of payment and credit acceptable to those with whom we are seeking trade.

ROANE ONE OF THE VETERANS

LEAGUES ACTIVE

Is a Hard Tackler in Spite of His Lack in Weight

Has Been Played at Both End and Quarter-Back This Season

The local high school eleven, although it has met with two bad reverses out of the schedule's first three games, holds promise of being a first class aggregation when the end of the gridiron season rolls around. By the time that the big games with Lawrence high and Textile are played Lowell high will be traveling at a formidable pace.

The squad at the high school this year is one of the best which ever turned out for any coaching staff. Their greenness and inexperience, however, will take several weeks' time to overcome but when the team does round into shape it will spring surprise upon many of the larger schools.

One of the most valuable players left from last year's aggregation is "Roundy" Roane, end, quarter-back or any position behind the line. Roane, although very light, played a whirlwind game for the high school last season and has started off in the same manner this fall.

that the school has had in years. He is into every play and in particularly good at open field work. Fast on his feet "Roundy" is able to shift through an end play in fine style and seldom is he boxed by the interference given the runner. He has been played at both end and quarter-back this season.

LEAGUE PRESIDENTS TALK ON WORLD'S SERIES—ADMIT BEST TEAM WON

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The national baseball commission wound up its immediate affairs as soon as possible after the game yesterday and left for New York, where a final meeting to close up the season's business is scheduled for early afternoon.

Governor Tener, president of the National league and a member of the commission, left on the 5 o'clock special with Mrs. Tener and a party of friends. He will continue on his way home.

Before boarding the train last evening he stopped long enough to make a statement:

"Never before in the history of baseball world series has a team cleaned up four games straight, and the Braves' victory over the Athletics has been decisive beyond question. Boston ought to be proud of her boys, as the National league is proud of them."

"Manager Stallings has turned out a wonderful aggregation of clean ball players, and no finer exhibition of up-to-date work on a ball field has fallen to my lot to see."

"Garry" Hermann, chairman of the national commission, took the time to lay emphasis on the "boast" organized baseball has received from the quick win of the world's championship. He said:

"The quick four-game finish of the world's series by the Boston Braves has been a great addition to sentiment in favor of organized baseball. It has shown conclusively the honesty of the game, and no man will now be so stupid as to suggest that world's series games are 'fixed' for one look at the money taken in at the gate in a single game and another at the quick windup of this series will not give him a leg to stand on in his assertions."

"The Braves won because they were far and away the better team, and any bunch of ball tossers who intend to stack up against them will have to go some, believe me."

Ban Johnson, president of the American league and member of the National baseball commission, although expressive of his regrets that his league did not produce this year's world champions, wanted to be quoted as acknowledging that the best team won without the question of a doubt.

GILBERT GALLANT WON

DEFEATED LEACH CROSS AT BOSTON LAST NIGHT—NEW YORKER SENT TO MAT TWICE

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Gilbert Gallant, of Chelsea, gave the fans another surprise last night at the Atlas A. A., winning the decision over Lench Cross of New York in their 12-round bout. Patsy Haley of New York was the referee and his verdict met with the approval of nearly all present.

It was another case where the predictions of the fans were wrong. Cross is one of the top-notchers in the lightweight class and it was thought he would make Gallant look like a novice and possibly win in a decisive manner. At times Cross appeared to be searching for a vaudeville act. By pretending to be groggy, it is supposed that he hoped that Gallant would leave good openings. The plan, if such it was, failed.

There was a couple of times when Cross was really dizzy, once a few seconds after Timer LeClair started the contest, and later when caught with the left hook that tumbled him to the mat for the count of nine.

In the second round Gallant repeated. Cross again going to the mat for the count of nine. Gallant used his left better than he ever has before. He landed on the New Yorker often. Cross did some good hitting when he was in close and also did some nice jabbing. His famous right did not do much damage. He reached Gallant's jaw, but the blows did not appear to bother his rival.

Cross did not always box according to the rules. Both boxers did considerable missing and clinching, but referee Haley got them apart in such quick time.

In the last three rounds Gallant showed signs of tiring. Cross tried hard to even up the score, but Gallant worked so well he could not. Referee Haley gave Gallant the decision without hesitation.

The semi-final between Dan McLean and George Robinson was a warm affair. Robinson was given the award.

William Green defeated Alf Freedman of England in three rounds in the opening bout. Willie Howard of New York, who met Ed Brown, quit in four rounds.

Gunboat Smith and Sam Langford

WORLD'S SERIES AVERAGES

Several Bowling Organizations Busy Last Night

Several bowling leagues were in session last night with matched games scheduled. In one or two instances last night's scores were above the average.

Two games were rolled off in the Laramie league, the Perfectionists going down before the well directed volleys of the Sweenoffs and the Reserve No. 9 bowlers putting it on to the Laramie duplex.

In the first mentioned game the winners put the team total of 1408, the best record for the league thus far and a better score than any league team has thus far put up at Kitteridge's alley this season. Wilson was high man with 324. The Reserve No. 3 team also rolled well, Freyer getting a three string total of 316.

The Mercantile League started on their schedule last night. Tucke and Parker's five were not fast enough to withstand the onslaught of the D. L. Page rollers and lost the match by nearly a hundred pins. In the other game Macartney's bowlers were smothered by the C. B. Coburn quintet. Hurley of the latter team took high honors in this league.

The Y. M. C. A. league also opened last night with a match between the Monhegans and the Samosets. The Samosets came through in the first two strings and managed to pile up a lead which the Monhegans could not overcome in the final ten boxes. Dooley was high man.

The Blackstone Shop and the Locomotive Shop, two teams from the Billerica car shops, rolled an interesting game in which the Locomotive Shop defeated their brethren by the score of 1388-1305. Gorman of the winners with 318 was high man. The scores:

NORTH ENDS WON, 5-0

BAPTISTS MEET NEW GUNS COMPLETED

Merrimack River Association in Session at No. Tewksbury

The 49th annual meeting of the Merrimack River Baptist association is being held today at the North Tewksbury Baptist church with a large attendance of representatives of Baptist churches from cities and towns throughout the valley. Many clergymen and members of local churches were present, each Baptist church being represented by several delegates.

The first session was called to order at 10 o'clock. A short address of welcome was delivered after which a griot of routine business was transacted. At 11 o'clock the annual sermon was preached by Rev. Forrester A. Macdonald, pastor of the Fifth Street Baptist church of this city, who spoke on the subject "Our Spiritual Needs and Our Resources."

At noon a bountiful dinner was served in the vestry by the ladies of the church after which there were addresses by Rev. Harry Safford of Rangoon, Burma, subject "Basic Principles of Missions"; Rev. W. T. Thayer of Wallingford, Conn., subject "The Challenge of Our Times to Our Denomination"; Mrs. A. B. Upshur Malden, subject "Woman's Work for the Kingdom." This evening at 7 o'clock Rev. Carey W. Chamberlain will speak on the subject "Evangelism in Principle and Practice."

VERDICT FOR EDWIN GOULD

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A verdict in favor of Edwin Gould in his suit against F. Augustus Heinz for recovery of $1,200,000, a part of the purchase price of stock in the Merchant's National bank, with interest thereon, was returned by a jury in the United States district court here today. While the jury was out Justice Page sent in instructions that the jury must bring in a verdict for the whole amount or nothing.

BOARD OF TRADE

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Lowell Board of Trade will be held at 6:30 o'clock this evening in Page's restaurant in Merrimack square. Considerable business has accumulated during the past month and will be brought before the directors at this meeting.

BROUGHT DOWN ZEPPELIN

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14.—A patrol of rooks while hidden in a forest near Warsaw brought down a Zeppelin airship by well directed fire.

The crew of the Zeppelin were saved. The ship itself which was not seriously damaged has been taken to Warsaw.

U. S. TROOPS ON BORDER

DOUGLAS, ARK., Oct. 14.—Troops A and G of the 13th cavalry arrived here today from Columbus, Mo., under command of Major J. G. Jones. There are now four troops of United States cavalry on the border here as a result of the attack on the Cárdenas, son of Agua Prieta, across the line, by the forces of Governor Maytorena of Sonora.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Please tell me whether I should precede a caller or let the caller go ahead when I entertain," asked Grace.

"It does not make a great deal of difference whether you lead the way into the living room or request your guest to go ahead of you. When there are servants the maid or butler leads the way and stands while the guests enter the room," answered her aunt.

"Kindly tell me how a widow's card should be engraved," asked a recently bereaved girl.

"A widow is at liberty to retain her husband's Christian name on her card, or to substitute for it her own, as for example, the widow of Frank Willing Smith may have her cards read either Mrs. Frank Smith, or Mrs. Mary Louise Smith. Very frequently a widow uses her maiden surname with the surname of her deceased husband," answered her sympathetic mother.

"When going to a seat near the wall, in any kind of an audience, should I face the people whom I am passing or should I turn my back to them?" asked Midred.

"Yes, it is more convenient to turn one's back to the persons seated if she aunt."

THINGS ARE BOOMING

AT THE BOULEVARD

AT WORK ON FILTRATION PLANT

Water Department Rushing Preliminary Work on New Filtration Plant —Contractor Gow Installs Portable Saw Mill, Stone Crusher and Concrete Mixers —Operations to be Continued as Long as Weather Will Permit

About 60 men in the employ of the water department are excavating for the cement work in connection with the filtration plant, so that the great mound of sand thrown up on the opposite side of the boulevard from the pumping station does not represent war-like entrenchments but a ray of hope for better water for Lowell. It represents part of the preliminary work in connection with the installation of the filtration plant and the work is being rushed as rapidly as possible.

The men from the water department are laying pipe to clean the filters and they are also installing drain pipe to carry off the water from the filters. Contractor Gow has installed a big stone crusher and two concrete mixers. The concrete is all ready for the clear water basin and things are moving right along. If the weather holds good the contractor expects to continue operations until about the second week in January.

Filtred Water Reservoir
The purification or filtration plant, now under process of construction, will be located on the north side of the boulevard, immediately opposite the lower pumping station. It will consist of six coke pre-filters, 10 feet in depth and two-fifths of an acre in total area; a settling basin divided into two units, with a total capacity of 500,000 gallons; six sand filters, with a total area of one acre; and a filtered water reservoir of 1,000,000 gallons capacity.

Over the inner walls of the pre-filters, a superstructure is to be built, so as to provide an operating gallery under cover. Immediately in front of this building, and connected thereto, a headhouse and laboratory will be located and practically all the operations involved in the control of the plant will be concentrated in this central structure, which contains the main valves and the recording apparatus.

VIII Use Holly Pump
The present Holly pump will be used to draw water from the wells and lift it to the pre-filters. After passing through the coke, the water will flow through orifice boxes, by which the pre-filter rate will be determined and recorded, thence through the settling basins to the sand filters, from which it will return through effluent pipes and Venturi meters to the headhouse, and finally flow through a conduit in the central wall of the settling basins to the filtered water reservoir, from which it will be lifted by new steam turbine driven centrifugal pumps, located in a small extension of the present station, into the force main leading to the West Sixth St. station.

At a rate of 75 million gallons per acre per day through the pre-filters, and a 10 million gallon rate through the sand filters, the area provided will be equal to a 10 million gallon daily output. Allowing for cleaning and for the possible desirability of a lower rate through the coke, the plant will be ample for an average daily supply of 7,500,000 to 8,500,000 gallons, or—if the past growth of the population in Lowell holds in the future—sufficient for the needs of the city until 1935.

Provision has been made for great elasticity in the plant, so that the method of operation can be adapted to any variable conditions which may develop in the water.

All structures are designed to be of the most permanent character; the sand filters, settling basins and filtered water reservoir will be roofed by concrete groined arches and covered with soil and grass. The superstructures will be of the same material as that of which the lower boulevard station is built.

KING WIRES POINCARÉ ENTER PLEAS OF GUILTY AT POINT OF BAYONET

BELGIAN RULER THANKS PRESIDENT OF FRANCE FOR HOSPITALITY

PARIS, Oct. 14.—King Albert of Belgium has sent the following telegram to President Poincaré:

"I am profoundly touched by the hospitality so cordially offered by France to the Belgian government and by the measures taken by the government of the republic to assure our full independence and sovereignty."

"We await with unshakeable confidence the hour of common victory. Fighting side by side in a just cause, our courage never shall fail us. 'T beg you to believe, Mr. President, in my unalterable affection."

(Signed) "ALBERT."

TAX COMMISSIONER

William D. Tracy of Marblehead Re-appointed by Governor David L. Walsh

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—William D. Tracy of Marblehead was reappointed tax commissioner by Governor Walsh today. The governor also named Harvey N. Shepard of Boston to be a member of the civil service commission in place of Prof. Garrett Drowers of Williamsburg, who was recently appointed ambassador to Greece, and Professor Holcomb of Harvard university for the minimum wage commission.

FELIX 22 STORIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Gustav Baumann, proprietor of the Baltimore hotel, went to the roof of the hotel today to inspect the carpenter shops there. While looking over the ledge he lost his balance and fell 22 stories to the Italian gardens below.

Mr. Baumann came to this city from Chicago.

UNIVERSALIST CONFERENCE

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. Leroy W. Conant of Manchester, N. H.; vice-president, Rev. Caleb E. Fisher, D. D., of Lowell; secretary and treasurer, Rev. C. P. Churchill of Nashua, N. H. The next conference will be held at the Grace Universalist church this city, November 11.

B. & M. STOCKHOLDERS

ANNUAL MEETING ADJOURNED BECAUSE DIRECTORATE HAS NOT BEEN CONFIRMED

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Because the directorate for the ensuing corporate year has not been confirmed by trustees of the majority stock, the annual meeting of the Boston & Maine stockholders was adjourned today until Oct. 25. The approval of the board of directors cannot take place. It is stated until the decree dissolving the New Haven road who voted for the adjournment for two weeks.

"It is expected that the final decree will be entered by consent of both parties in the so-called dissolution suit against the New Haven within a few days," declared F. A. Farham, Massachusetts counsel for the New Haven road who voted for the adjournment for two weeks.

"This will be followed by the transfer of the voting power of the Boston Holding Co.'s Boston & Maine stock to the Holders, who will then be in a position to vote for the Boston & Maine directors. Under these circumstances the New Haven management will not vote the Boston holding stock for directors at this time," Mr. Farham added.

The postponement for two weeks is believed to be ample time within which to sign the dissolution decree.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The recently elected officers of Union Samuel de Champlain, F. V. A., were inducted into office last night at a regular meeting of the union held in C. M. A. C. hall. The meeting was largely attended and at the close of the business session a social hour was spent.

The meeting was presided over by Chief Forester David A. Parthenais, and the installing officer was Deputy Forester Leader of Court St. Louis, F. A., assisted by J. S. Lippe. The officers installed were as follows:

Camille Ayotte, chief forester; Paul Vincent, treasurer; Arthur Lavoie, financial secretary; Edmund Lambert, recording secretary; Narcisse Foucher and Françoise Deschênes, guards; Adelard Isabelle and Arthur Champagne, sentinels; Dieudonné Tremblay, Isidore Tétrelleau and Théophile Rainville, trustees; Joseph Parent, dean; D. A. Parthenais, past chief forester.

During the social hour the past chief forester, David A. Parthenais, was presented a handsome gold mace with the arms of the society as a token of appreciation for the valuable services rendered the union during his term of office. A musical program was carried out and the new officers addressed the gathering.

PEACE TREATIES WITH U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Swinging the handles of swords whose blades had been turned into miniature plowshares by order of the secretary of state, Senators William Alden Smith and McCumber made an ostentatious entry into the senate chamber this afternoon after a meeting of the foreign relations committee, in which their attitude toward the pending Nicaraguan treaty had been anything but peaceful.

In the committee meeting each member had been presented with the handle of a discarded army sword. With the gifts from Secretary Bryan was a note stating that the blades had been made into plowshare paperweights for ambassadors and ministers of foreign nations who had signed peace commission treaties with the United States.

VILLA CONFISCATES PROPERTY

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 14.—Advices received here today from Carranza officers state that General Villa has confiscated property belonging to German citizens in the state of Durango totaling in value $1,000,000. Villa also is reported to have ordered the confiscation of all large estates within his territory whether owned by foreigners or natives.

Villa despatched 500 soldiers from Chihuahua yesterday against General Mac Lovio Herrera, who is in revolt against Villa at Parral. He is estimated to have anywhere from 1500 to 2000 men.

WILSON WITH CONG. STEVENS

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 14.—A letter from President Wilson endorsing Congressman Raymond Stevens for the U. S. Senate was received by Prof. Charles D. Adams of Dartmouth college today.

Replies to Prof. Adams' inquiry as to Rep. Stevens' congressional record, President Wilson wrote that he had been particularly serviceable in clarifying counsel in regard to important provisions in anti-trust legislation.

SHORTRAGE OF $50,000

DAYTON, Oct. 14.—Disclosures of a shortage of more than $50,000 in the tuns of the Mansfield Building and Loan association here today resulted in the arrest of J. C. Meyers, secretary of the association and a lawyer and former member of the state legislature.

ASKS WOMEN TO LEAVE

JORDAN, Oct. 14.—In a despatch from Amsterdam the correspondent of the Reuters Telegram Co. says that the Reuter's building, which was visited by an army of unemployed under the leadership of Frank Tanenbaum, was forced to close. The men forced their way into the church and almost all of them were arrested. Tanenbaum was found guilty of participating in an unlawful assembly and sentenced to serve in the Blackwell Island penitentiary a year and to pay a fine of $500. He has served a little more than half of his term.

LISTS OF WAR PRISONERS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Through the official war information bureau, the British government has issued a statement regarding the German assertion published abroad that although Germany since the beginning of the war, has furnished the belligerent government twice weekly with a full list of all their wounded and prisoners of war, no news has been received by Germany concerning the German wounded and prisoners.

DELEGATES APPOINTED

At a meeting of J. N. Jacques committee, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique held last night at the Centralville Social Club, Adolphe Bouchard was appointed a delegate to represent the committee and the quarterly meeting of District council, No. 5, which will be held in this city on the first Sunday in November. Joseph Biron was elected alternate.

MURDERER LYNNED

ANGLETON, Texas, Oct. 14.—Joe Durfee, convicted of murdering Mrs. J. M. Seitz of Post City, Texas, in the summer of 1913, was taken from jail a mob here today and lynched. Durfee was to have been hanged here legally last week but was resoled for 60 days.

DUMP FIRE

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 14.—Growers of tobacco in the Connecticut valley report that the long continued drought has affected the tobacco. The crop is being cured and the dry spell has delayed the process and will damage the crop. The extent of the damage cannot be ascertained until after the first rain.

DR. J. T. DONEHUE

Appointed Trustee of Textile School by Gov. Walsh

Dr. J. T. Donehue of this city, the well known dentist of the Runels building was notified this afternoon that he has been appointed a trustee of the Lowell Textile school by Governor Walsh and the governor's council. He succeeds Franklin W. Hobbs.

DR. JOHN T. DONEHUE

treasurer of the Arlington mills, whose term of office expired last June. Dr. Donehue has been appointed for a four year term. The other trustee appointed by the governor and governor's council and now acting upon the board is Frederick A. Flather, treasurer of the Scott mills. The entire number of trustees, including the honorary members, those who hold the position "ex-officio," those elected by the alumni under the act of 1885 and the permanent trustees, number thirty-five. Dr. Donehue is also a trustee of the Lowell city library, having been elected by the municipal council in 1911.

BOMB EXPLOSION

N.Y. Police Investigate Attempts to Wreck Two Churches

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—After an investigation started today into the explosions in St. Patrick's cathedral and in the yard of the St. Alphonsus rectory in West Broadway, the police believe that the bombs exploded yesterday afternoon and early today at the two edifices were the work of the same person or persons. That the bomb in the cathedral was placed there by a demented person was the opinion expressed by Monseigneur Lavalle, who left the scene of the explosion a few minutes before it occurred. The explosion rendered a boy, kneeling in prayer, unconscious and tore a hole in the floor several foot wide, splintered nearby paneled doors and shattered the marble ceiling. The bomb in the doorway of St. Alphonsus church exploded seven hours after the one at the cathedral and slightly injured a

GERMAN ARMY MET WITH HEAVY DEFEAT

German Plan to Hold Pas De Calais and Deliver Crushing Blow to Allies' Left Wing Has Failed, Says London

LONDON, Oct. 14.—In a despatch dated Monday the daily Mail's correspondent in northern France says:

"The great German plan to hold the department of Pas De Calais and deliver a crushing blow to the allies' left wing has failed thus far. Yesterday and on Saturday our armies drove the enemy still further back."

"The German army which extended from Turcoing to Armentieres and was forced from its position last Tuesday has again met with heavy defeat and been beaten back northward."

"The battle which has been raging at intervals near Arras blazed out again yesterday, I hear and once more we forced the Germans back to the east and north. The German losses are said to be heavy, one force which advanced last week from the northeast on Bapaume, near the Belgian frontier, has had to turn tail as long ago as last Wednesday its columns were beating a heavy retreat back whence they came to join their supporters at Ypres."

Patrick's when the explosion occurred. Two women were well up front and were not injured. John Rogers, a walter, recently from Philadelphia, and John Ryan, a boy, aged 14, were in pews near the door and received bruises and lacerations. Rogers came running out of the church into 5th avenue in a cloud of smoke and dust.

The police were kept busy several hours preventing persons from entering the church.

A second bomb was exploded last night in St. Alphonse's Roman Catholic church, West Broadway.

It was in St. Alphonse's church that Frank Tanenbaum, an Industrial Workers of the World leader, and 200 followers were arrested last winter while engaged in a round of demonstrations.

RECEIVERS FOR THE BRAZIL RAILWAY COMPANY AND ITS SUBSIDIARY CORPORATION

PORLTAND, Me., Oct. 14.—Receivers for the Brazil Railway company and its subsidiary corporation, the Madeira-Mamore Railway company, were appointed in the United States district court yesterday in consequence of "the alleged prostration of business in Brazil because of the European war and the failure to receive more than $10,000,000 due the Brazil company from the republic of Brazil."

The indebtedness of the Brazil Rail-

The receivers are W. Cameron Forbes of Dedham, Mass., former governor general of the Philippines, for the Brazil Railway company, and Mr. Forbes and David T. Davis of New York for the Madeira-Mamore-Railway company, both of which are Maine corporations.

The companies, which own or control more than 3000 miles of railroad in Brazil, were financed largely by foreign capital. The complainant is Deane Stanis of 77 Harrison Avenue, Boston, who owns $116,800 of the bonds of the Madeira-Mamore Railway company, the interest on which at 5 1/2 per cent was unconditionally guaranteed by the Brazil Railway company. He claims the interest due the first of this month was not paid.

MISTAKEN FOR SKUNK

Woman Shot at New Haven by a Youth Who Had Been Luring Chickens

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 14.—James Bontempo, 17 years old, whose parents reside on Derby avenue, about 6 o'clock yesterday morning shot Mrs. Griswold, mistaking her for a skunk that had been stealing his chickens. Young Bontempo was awakened by a noise under his father's house, grabbed his shotgun and seeing an object in the dark fired a load of birdshot at it. A woman jumped up, ran screaming toward the house and then fell.

Bontempo's parents picked up Mrs. Griswold, who is 49 years of age, and rushed her to Grace hospital. The physicians extracted two shot shot from her body, but she will recover. The police believe the woman had been sleeping on Bontempo's lawn. Young Bontempo gave himself up, but the police released him.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

That our Fish and Game association is wide awake in the interests of fishermen and hunters is shown in their action by endorsing a bill introduced in the state board and the present time is ripe for action since the incoming term expires December 1.

It is high time the county was represented on the state board and the present time is ripe for action since the incoming term expires December 1.

It is felt that with Mr. Holt as a commissioner conditions would greatly improve. We could hope for some effective regulations in force relative to fishing in our streams and ponds, and something done to keep the fishways open on the Merrimack from the lake to the sea. Just at present the pheasants which are reported to be plentiful in certain sections but a few miles from Lowell will become targets for gunners of more or less skill—fortunately for the birds.

It's a very good thing for all hunted creatures that so many of the hunters know so little about hunting and that they are such wristed shots. In this connection it is well to warn all who like to frequent the woods at this season of the year—hunting included—to be cautious, for there is considerable danger of being peppered by the contents of the gun of some heedless sportsman who blazes away utterly regardless of anybody's safety.

In the papers we often read of the killing of hunters by their fellow sportmen and while the risk is alarmingly long, we don't usually hear of the much longer lists of close calls that happen in the woods.

I recall an experience in the woods of Tewksbury several years ago when it appeared that for a few exciting moments I was certainly being hunted with vengeance, so much so that I threw myself flat upon the ground. Yet I knew that I wasn't entirely safe even there.

I escaped to tell the tale, feeling, I fancy, like a soldier who for the first time has been "under fire"—rather scared, but thankful to be still alive.

Since that occasion I've been careful during the hunting season to keep in the open for I have no desire in the

at the hands of a punk, imitation hunter.

There was great disappointment among Lowell hunters today when it was learned that Gov. Walsh had suspended the open season on upland game, including, of course, the much sought-after pheasant whose precious little carcass is selling at $1.50 per copy.

The danger of forest fires, because of the long drought which still continues, has led the governor to suspend the open season until such time as a drenching rain has ended the danger that now exists. His Excellency's proclamation, however, will not be lived up to very thoroughly today as the governor and by the executives of the forestry and of the fish and game departments, it must be obvious to every public spirited citizen that the damage arising from even the small percentage of fires started by hunters may be very considerable, not alone in direct and actual monetary losses, but indirectly, results through the destruction of birds and by deterrent effect upon labor and capital which is now being put into the development of the forest, woodland and orchard properties by individuals and by the state.

I therefore consider that the public may be best served by suspending the present open season on upland game, until a general and drenching rain has quenched the present numerous fires and made conditions again favorable within the commonwealth.

"At the suggestion and with the advice of the state forester and of the fish and game commissioners, I hereby proclaim, as provided in chapter 422, acts of 1909, that the open season on upland game be suspended in this com-

law, he shall be subject to a fine of not more than $100.

Section 3—A proclamation issued under authority hereof shall be published in such newspapers of the state, and posted in such places, and in such manner, as the governor may direct, under the charge and direction of the state forester and the commissioners on fisheries and game.

The Governor's Proclamation

"In view of the extreme drought now existing and the fact that forest fires reported at the forest lookouts suddenly increased at least 500 per cent on Oct. 12, the first day of the open season on upland game, in spite of the extraordinary precautions taken by the governor and by the executives of the forestry and of the fish and game departments, it must be obvious to every public spirited citizen that the damage arising from even the small percentage of fires started by hunters may be very considerable, not alone in direct and actual monetary losses, but indirectly, results through the destruction of birds and by deterrent effect upon labor and capital which is now being put into the development of the forest, woodland and orchard properties by individuals and by the state.

GOV. WALSH SUSPENDS THE HUNTING SEASON

FIRST TREATY IN FORCE

GUATEMALA TO AVOID SUDEN WAR—PLOWSHARE PAPER-WEIGHTS MADE FROM SWORDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Ratifications of the peace commission treaty between the United States and Guatemala were exchanged at the state department yesterday and the first of the conventions designed by Secretary Bryan to guard this nation from sudden war went into effect.

Each government is now engaged in selecting its representatives on the permanent commission created under the treaty to which all disputes between the two nations for at least a year before either country shall make warlike preparations. The third commissioner will be selected by these two.

With the exchange of ratifications, the signing yesterday of treaties with Ecuador and Greece and the announcement that a similar convention with Sweden would be signed in a few days, Secretary Bryan made public the fact that he had had the blades of a score of condemned army swords converted into paperweights in the form of plowshares which will be presented to the ambassadors or ministers of the 29 powers now signatory to peace commission treaties with the United States.

On each will be engraved the prophecy of Isaiah: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares." The hilts of the weapons, melted down, will be presented to the members of the senate foreign affairs committee.

The senate also made progress with the peace treaties yesterday, ratifying those with China and Russia. Twenty-one of the 29 conventions now have been approved by the senate and await only the formal exchange of ratifications to go into effect.

Consideration of the treaty with China was delayed some weeks ago when a batch of similar treaties were ratified. Some members of the foreign affairs committee desired to investigate it before taking up their minds.

Secretary Bryan appeared several times to urge its ratification, his last visit to the capitol being made yesterday. The treaty evoked no discussion in the senate. It was said, the Russian treaty was signed only a short time ago.

MOBILIZE ITALIAN ARMY

Naturalized Italians in the United States Will Return to Italy at Their Peril

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Naturalized

Italians and even male children born of native Italians in the United States will return to Italy at their peril during the continuance of the present European war, for they are almost certain to be impressed into the Italian army which is now being mobilized. Hundreds of complaints have come to the state department from the friends and relatives of young Italians who after having been naturalized in America have returned to Italy for visits, that they have been required to join the army.

The state department has been unable to do anything for them because there is no naturalization treaty between Italy and the United States so drawn.

REGARDING the children born of native Italians in the United States who are likewise being drafted into the Italian army upon their appearance in Italy there is a possibility of serious complications between the two governments. Like the French government the Italian government has consistently held that such children are Italian citizens upon their return to Italy. The state department never has admitted this contention, which strikes at the roots of American citizenship and up to this time an actual issue has been averted by the granting of indefinite leaves of absence to such persons by the Italian government, a privilege which it has now withdrawn.

BIG NAVAL BATTLE IMMINENT

PARTED IN CHILDHOOD BROTHER MET SISTER

Francis Ouimette Patenaude, 22 years old, formerly of Lowell and now of Rossland, British Columbia, who is visiting relatives in this city, is a happy man and he has reason to feel that way, for last night he met a sister he had not seen for 20 years, and only a few days ago he was entertained by another sister in Pittsburgh, whom he had never seen.

The young man is the son of Napoleon Ouimette, who died five years ago. He is one of six children who were separated 20 years ago at the death of the mother. Two of them have passed away since and the other four are as follows: Albert Ouimette, 24 years of age of Rock Island, Canada; Laura, Mrs. Sidney Rufus, 26 years of age of Pittsburgh; Marie Rose Della Ouimette, 20 years of this city and Francis Ouimette Patenaude, 22 years, of Rossland, B. C.

Francis was adopted by his godfather, Nels Patenaude of this city and he was then given the name of his foster parents. Twelve years ago the family removed to Coonhook, Que., whence they went to Rossland eight years ago. The boy knew he had a brother and four sisters, but did not know their whereabouts and did not even know if they were alive.

Three months ago the young man came to the United States for the

PARIS REPORTS ADVANCE

London Hopes to Celebrate Anniversary of the Battle of Jena With Victory Along Both Fronts Today—Turkish Fleet, Composed of German Cruisers, Sighted in Black Sea—Germans Advance Near Ostend—Belgian Government Goes to Havre—Lille Retaken by Germans

LONDON, Oct. 14.—There is hope in London today that the anniversary of the battle of Jena in which the French gained a victory over the Prussians and Saxons may be celebrated along both battle fronts by events recalling this great and decisive struggle, but whatever the outcome, observers are being permitted to receive only the briefest reports of what is now transpiring in Belgium, France and Russia.

The latest French official communication declares there is nothing to report except a notable advance in the region of Berry Im Au Bac, while Petrograd gives out the cryptic statement that warlike operations continue to develop along the Vistula and San rivers as far as Przemysl and farther south as far as the Dniester. A great battle along this front may even now be under way and in any event it cannot be long postponed.

Vienna reports that the Austrian offensive continues successfully north and south of Przemysl and that Jaslowitz, an important fortress taken by Russia several weeks ago, has been recaptured by the Austrians.

GERMAN RIGHT REPULSED

In the battle the German fleet is showing unusual activity. In addition to submarines or a torpedo boat which recently sank a Russian cruiser at a great distance two days' steaming from their base, a great German squadron flying the flag of Prince Henry of Prussia has today reported cruising about the Aland Islands, according to a Berlin announcement.

The ferment over the question of neutrality of the countries of southeastern Europe is increasing everywhere. An exception is found in the case of Italy, where discussion has been checked while the country awaits news from the sick bed of its foreign minister.

CRUISERS IN BLACK SEA
The famous cruisers Goeben and Breslau again are a source of friction with Turkey on account of the report that they have passed into the Black sea and are today near the spot where Russian fleet was reported to be cruising not long ago.

In England the controversy over the sending of naval reserves into Antwerp is confined to the press and the public, the authorities having made no reply to criticism of their action.

GERMANS AGREE TO PROPOSAL PUT FORWARD BY EMPEROR OF JAPAN

TOKIO, Oct. 14.—It is reported that the German commander at Tsing Tau has agreed to the Japanese proposal as put forward by the emperor of Japan for the preservation of the lives of non-combatants in the German fortress and it is expected that these neutrals will leave Tsing Tau shortly by way of the Shantung railroad.

POPULACE FLEE FROM OSTEND—ONLY SMALL FORCE OF TROOPS REMAIN

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Daily Sketch's Ostend correspondent says:

REOPENING OF RHEIMS LAW COURT UNDER A HAIL OF SHELLS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—An Express Telegraph despatch from Paris says:

MEMBERS OF BELGIAN GOVERNMENT GREETED AT HAVRE

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The members of the Belgian government arrived in Havre Tuesday evening and were received by the minister of marine and the local authorities, says a despatch today. Military honors were rendered the Belgians and the population gave them an enthusiastic reception.

GERMAN AND CHINESE WOMEN AND CHILDREN TO LEAVE TSING TAU

TOKIO, Oct. 14.—It was officially declared today that the American consul at Tsing Tau, W. R. Peck, and a number of German and Chinese women and children are to leave there tomorrow. This move is in fulfillment of the arrangement recently concluded for the removal of all remaining non-combatants from the German position in Kiao Chow.

LEFT WING OF ALLIES TO BE THE SCENE OF SHARP FIGHTING

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Chronicle's correspondent at the seat of war telegraphs today as follows:

The left wing of the allies where the French and British forces have taken the offensive at certain points against the Germans is expected to be the scene of sharp fighting.

The occupation of Lille by the Germans, it is believed by the French, will be only of short duration. The actions in this vicinity previously had been principally engagements between the cavalry of the contending forces but the French official communication now speaks of "our forces" in general and not as previously "our cavalry." In referring to the troops around Lille, indicating that in addition to the squad-

LOSSES SUFFERED BY STATE BANK FAILURE

Whether Depositors May Resort to Courts to Compel Officials to Reimburse Them Depends on the Outcome of Arguments Today Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Whether depositors in state banks may resort to the courts to compel state officials in charge of the depositors' guaranty funds to reimburse them for losses suffered by a state bank failure depends upon the outcome of arguments today before the supreme court.

The specific case presented to the court arose out of the failure of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Sapulpa, Okla. The state banking board reimbursed the city of Sapulpa for losses sustained by it, but refused to reimburse certain corporation depositors and holders of deposit certificates. The decision probably will affect the rights of depositors in every state having a guaranty law for bank deposits.

Attorney General West appeared for the state of Oklahoma and Charles A. Loonis of Kansas City, Mo., headed a corps of attorneys for depositors.

NO REAL RAIN

New England Drought to Continue—Great Suffering From Dry Spell

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Fair weather is predicted in the forecast given out at the local office of the United States weather bureau last night, and there seems little prospect that the drought will soon be broken, although the weather man said there is a possibility of light or scattered showers in some parts of New England. However, there was nothing on the weather map last night to show that a rain-storm of sufficient magnitude to be of any great value to the dry and parched territory is on the way.

The excessive dry spell has continued for more than a month and a half and has enveloped all New England. From Sept. 1 to Oct. 13 the average rainfall for the section has been only one inch, or 2.35 inches below the average normal rainfall.

Or the six New England states, Connecticut and Massachusetts have suffered most, the precipitation in the latter being but a trifle more than a half-inch or nearly three inches below normal, the official figures being: Precipitation .57 of an inch, deficiency 2.81 of an inch.

In Maine the rainfall was 1.48 and the deficiency 2.17; Vermont, precipitation 2.12, deficiency .91, and Rhode Island .77 and 2.50.

While these figures show the averages for the whole section and for the several states, some scattered points have suffered even worse, Concord, Mass., for instance, having had rainfall of only .12 inch during the period from Sept. 1 to yesterday. Other points, however, have been more fortunate and have received more rain than is shown in the figures, but at no point in New England has the rainfall during this period been up to the nominal average.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Times despatch from Petrograd says: On a conservative estimate the German forces known to be on the eastern frontier number about a million and a half effective men, not counting the Austrian troops, of whom there are about 270,000 on the Sicilian front.

GERMANS PREPARE TO LAY SIEGE ON BELFORT

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Central News despatch from Copenhagen says: According to a Berlin despatch received here the Germans are preparing to lay siege on Belfort with as large a force as possible. Almost the entire civil population has left the city.

Belfort is a fortress in France just across the Alsation border, just across from Muelhausen. In the Franco Prussian war it withstood a siege for more than three months. The town has a population of about 26,000.

GERMAN CRUISER GOEBEN IN TURKISH FLEET

ROME, Oct. 14.—A report received here from Constantinople says that the commander of the former German cruiser Goeben will become the head of the Turkish fleet and aims to attack the Russian fleet for mastery in the Black sea and to threaten the Russian coast. The Goeben now flies the Turkish flag and all her officers and crew are said to be Germans.

FORMER GERMAN CRUISERS FLY TURKISH FLAG

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Despatches received here from Sofia, Bulgaria, and other points report the appearance of the former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which fly the Turkish flag in the Black sea.

OPPOSED SINGLE TERM

Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, last week, when the subject was being considered by the house judiciary committee. It was said, however, that the letter would not be made public.

The president has never publicly discussed the one-term question, but has been understood by his friends to be of the opinion that there should be no constitutional restrictions limiting presidents to one term.

REDUCE THE COST OF KEEPING WARM

You can do it by using Genuine Gas Coke.

One chandron of coke, properly used, will do the work of one ton of coal.

Coal costs $8.00 per ton; Genuine Gas Coke, screened and clean, costs $5.00 per chandron.

FROM FARM TO CITY HOME

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT TO FURTHER EXTEND PARCEL POST SYSTEM IN NEW ENGLAND

The post office department at Washington has sent letters to various postmasters in the United States in connection with the further spreading of the parcel post. It is a project that is being tried out in an endeavor to bring the farmer and consumer together so that all the farm produce may be sold without the aid of the middleman and thus save money for both the producer and buyer. This will be given a trial in five New England cities. It is believed that in the establishment of direct relations between the farm and city householders the government is providing an agency that may prove very useful in reducing the present high cost of living.
